Street Work To Proceed On Douglas

Although Douglas Avenue residents offered to pay the extra cost involved in blacktopping the street, village council decided at its May meeting to go ahead with planned corrective work on the paving.

Councilman Randy Casteel said the work there and at other places in the village will be done by the contractor at no cost to the village. He attributed poor work done last year to cold weather which prevented proper setting-up of the paving material, resulting in complaints of oozing tar.

A final decision on Douglas Avenue, he said, should await completion of an intensive street study now underway. Noting the time involved in street planning, he said he thought it best meantime to take the corrective steps.

Levy Passed But Future Is Gloomy

Village council at its May meeting voiced appreciation of village passage of a 3.11 mill replacement levy at the May primaries, but discussed at length budget problems that could result in a call for approval of an additional levy at the November elections.

It did, though, reduce the tree assessment for next year from the present $1 to 40 cents per $1,000 of property valuation.

The replacement levy passed by a 164 to 80 vote. Vice-mayor Rusty Wilson, presiding in the absence of Mayor Jack Schmidt, said he thought the 2-1 approval indicated voter confidence in the village administration, but he coupled that with a note that the village is facing ever-increasing costs while revenues have been falling, largely because of cutbacks in library and local government funds received

The possible need to ask for another levy in November arose as Councilman John Wenstrup, chairman of the finance committee, discussed the tentative village budget for 1992, to be voted on in June.

As it stands, the budget calls for $789,000 in expenses, against anticipated revenues of $559,000, wiping out the village cash reserve which currently stands at $385,000.

The reserve was built up largely by windfalls in estate taxes, but Wilson noted that revenues from that source have dropped markedly in recent years, while the reserve has been depleted by capital ex-

A suggestion that garbage colbasis drew from Councilman John Prues the comment that "Let's not kid ourselves. It's still a tax."

Wenstrup said later he had begun consultations with county tax authorities on ways of meeting the problem. Suggestions included use of tax anticipation notes against future revenues, and use of councilmanic bonds to finance capital improvements instead of paying for them out of current revenues.

While saying that "revenues are going nowhere" while expenses are rising, Wilson said the increase of 15% over four years did not seem excessive. Councilman Randy Casteel attributed much of the expense to the high level of services provided by the village, with Wenstrup noting that nearly half the budget goes to the safety depart-

All the councilmen urged residents to "let us know what they want us to do."

The deadline for putting a new levy on the November ballot is August 28.

He's For Boomer

Bengal's quarterback Boomer Esiason has a firm fan in six-year old Brian Tirey of 326 Harvard. Brian and his father, Marc, attended the recent anti-drug campaign benefit at Cincinnati Gardens, and were in the crowd seeking Boomer's autograph. Esiason not only singled out Brian, taking him from his father's arms, but gave him the autograph and then peeled off this shirt and gave him that as well. The problem now is to get him to wear anything Terrace Park faces a contest Casteel, 819 Wooster Pike, who on the ballot unopposed for council. Those vacancies arise from Mrs. Howland's decision to run for mayor, and the retirement of John Wenstrup at the conclusion of his first four-year term. Wenstrup said family and business pressures forced his decision not to seek re-election, but he held out the possibility that he will seek to return to village politics later.

> Business pressures also led Mayor Jack Schmidt to decide not to seek re-election to the office he won over Casteel by nine votes four years ago. A Procter and Gamble executive, Schmidt in recent months was involved in travel that took him to Turkey, Germany, Venezuela and the Orient. He was in Hong Kong as village council held its May meeting. leaving Councilman Rusty Wilson to preside.

> Gilchrist and Rugh are assured of their seats unless write-in candidates appear. Such a candidate, according to the Board of Elections, must sign a declaration of intent and pay a filing fee by September 26. While the candidate's name will not be on the ballot, precinct election officials will be notified of a candidacy and instructed to count any ballots cast. No other names written on the ballot on election day will be considered.

- * Pending EPA acceptance of plumbing plans for the new maintenance building, council delayed action on other bids to complete the building.
- * To meet a technicality in Ohio law, council passed an ordinance making the Life Squad nominally a division of the fire department, although the units will operate separately. The move is to ensure that squad members have the same liability and other protection given firemen.

To the Editor:

I want to take this opportunity to express how good I feel about the large number of Terrace Park families who are recycling.

When I first set out to provide recycling for Terrace Park, the issue was new to me. Only a handful of people were recycling. Through the help of the Terrace Park Recycling Action Committee I have learned a lot about our environment, and now it seems that only a handful of people in Terrace Park are NOT recycling.

Now our present container program is in jeopardy. We do not accept newspapers or cardboard at this time, yet both are being left outside of the container. Council understands the need of the community to recycle all items possible. Unfortunately, the fluctuating paper market makes it impossible to accept paper products on a small scale.

May I suggest that those interested in recycling newspapers and cardboard boxes take them to the Milford recycling project on Water Street Thursdays and Saturdays; to Trinity Methodist Church on Rte. 28 at any time, or to the Container Corporation on Wooster Pike during business hours. It would be well to confirm times and acceptance of paper before loading up. TRAC members are ready to help with transportation if anyone needs assistance.

Summer Fun For Children To Open June 17

The Terrace Park Summer Fun Program will be available again this summer, free of charge, to children in the community who have completed Kthrough sixth grades. It will run daily, Monday through Friday, 1 - 3 p.m., beginning June 17 and ending July 12. Arts and crafts activities will take place in the school lunchroom, and sports and recreation activities will occur in the gym and/or outdoors.

Nancy Wade from the Mariemont Library will do oncé a week special projects to complement the summer program at the library. New Summer Fun supervisor Kelly Campbell and gym supervisor, Stacy Fordyce, will have six M.H.S. seniors-to-be as helpers--Jonathan Bernard, Beth Taylor, Randy Krueger, Abby Seik, Becky Howe, and Claudia Stockwell.

This year, due to increasinglylarge numbers of children attending, parents are asked to preregistertheirchildren, and volunteer some time if asked to do so. Registration forms are being sent home with the children. Additional forms can be picked up at the school office.

Any donated materials for arts and crafts, books, etc. would be appreciated. These can be dropped off in garages at 100 Red Bird Ln., or 3 Swallowfield Ln., or sent over when Summer Fun begins.

Coach Gets New Post At MHS

With Wyoming angling for Mariemont High School football coach Tom Crosby of Terrace Park, the Mariemont School Board countered by naming him to a new administrative post.

The board acted at a special meeting May 7, fixing his salary at $54,542, plus $4,020 under a supplemental contract as football coach.

Supt. Don Thompson said his duties had not been fully determined. But, he noted, they will include two positions for which Crosby had received extra pay as athletic director and chairman of the department of health and physical education. While Crosby will be relieved of teaching duties, Thompson said no additional physical education teacher would be hired.

The board concluded the meeting with an executive session to discuss employment of a director of curriculum and administrative serv-
