November Council announces changes to TP fire and police departments

By: Susan House

At the November 13, 2007 Terrace Park Council meeting, Mayor Jay Gohman began his remarks with an announcement that he has accepted the resignation of Jeff Carle as Terrace Park Fire Chief.

"I would like to announce that I have accepted Chief Jeff Carle's letter of resignation as Terrace Park Fire Chief," the mayor said. "I have named Luke Frey and Dave Glassmeyer as Interim Co-Chiefs of the Fire Department."

The mayor also said a captain was asked to resign. The mayor did not offer any explanations at this meeting. constraints, the Village Views will cover the December council meeting in the January issue of the paper.

New police officer

Michael D. Potrafke, a new police officer for the Terrace Park police force, was sworn in by the mayor before council members, his parents, and his girlfriend. He remarked that he was very proud to be joining this department for which he has high regard. Council members thanked him for his expressed dedication. Councilman Jack Brown said he is looking

EMS may issue education credits EMS (Emergency Medical Services) Chief Connie Wilson, reported the good news that certificates, verifying continuing education credit, may now be issued by the Terrace Park EMS Department. The department has been designated as a stateapproved training site. This will save the village money and will allow EMS to use some of their own instructors. In addition, they will be able to hold several drills per month, rather than just one lengthy drill, as in the past. Spe-

Superintendent of the Mariemont City Schools have been very supportive and have the utmost confidence in the knowledge, skill, and dedication that Tom has for his Terrace Park students as we all do. They have made themselves very available to help with this situation. Paul Imhoff has taken this to the Associate Superintendent for the State of Ohio who has agreed to walk Tom's appeal though the process and speak to the Ohio Board of Education on Tom's behalf.

What can you do to help Mr. Zaya? Tom Zaya requests letters of support/recommendation. These need to be letters that speak in detail about the nature, quality and success of his experience related to teaching middle childhood in Science and Social Studies.

The Credential Review Board does not encourage a meeting with the candidate because this is simply a paper review. The only way for the CRB to get to know Mr. Zaya is through these letters

Postmaster Ronda Kuhn Terrace Park, OH 45174 December 3, 2007

Dear Ronda,

While I was trying to think of a way to say, "Goodbye" and wish you well during your retirement, I thought a letter would be the most appropriate way...after all, you've been helping with our community's mail for more than two decades.

Our family has been privileged to live next door to you — one of the best neighbors in Terrace Park. You're always friendly and you never have any late night parties. The constant stream of customers who are really friends stopping by and chatting speaks to the fact that you do much more than sell stamps. Everytime I go in I overhear you asking after the health and well-being of your customers, their spouses, their children and even their dogs — the kind of concern one would hope to hear from a good friend.

I'll bet you know all the names of the residents of our village and where they live. Of course, you can say it's your job to know, but, you are so much more integral to our community than that. You probably know a lot about the lives behind the faces (and dogs) in the village after working at the TP post office branch for the last 23 years sorting and delivering mail and serving as our postmaster since 2001. I know you began your career in the post office as a mail carrier in the village, getting to know the residents. You even carried treats for the dogs in the pocket of your mail bag.

I think so too.

Tom (Mr. Zaya) transferred to our school from Boston, Massachusetts, has a Masters degree in Elementary Education and had six years teaching experience with all subjects at the intermediate 4th grade level. Tom has been teaching grades 5 and 6 at Terrace Park Elementary for two years. He knew he would need to transfer and apply for a teaching license in the State of Ohio. What he did not know is that he would become a victim of an Ohio State Law that is different from Massachusetts State Law.

When Tom and his wife Vicki decided to move to Cincinnati he applied to transfer his teaching license and credentials to the State of Ohio, assuming that his level of

The reason being, Ohio is lacking a 1-6 license instead grouping 5th and 6th grade into a 4-9 license (The Ohio Department of Education is trying to add this 1-6 classification because Tom is not the only great teacher caught in this debacle).

Tom has been told by the Ohio Department of Education that he needs to take 21 additional courses, not merely 21 additional credit hours, in order to receive his 4-9 teaching license. Twenty-one courses is more than enough courses for him to attain another master's degree and would take years! Because of the extreme nature of the requirements, Tom has filed an appeal with the State of Ohio and is currently going through that process.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Village of Terrace Park,

Last night I learned that Jeff Carle would no longer be our Fire Chief. My husband and I got to know Jeff 2 years ago when we attended EMS classes with him and Mark McCarthy. That means we spent 8 hours a week faithfully in class with him and became aware of his quick intelligence, sense of humor and care for others. He was always fun to be with and a great source of information about rescue with his 26 years on the fire department. In class learning about emergencies, I had lots of questions and Jeff was always willing to help me better understand what happens on the fire scene. He always did so humbly, with discretion and integrity which is how I would describe Jeff's manner day in and day out. Jeff, Bill and I complete the EMT classes along with Mark. This was no small undertaking for any of us in time especially, as many of you know. Bill and I admire Jeff and consider him a mentor as well as a friend as do so many others on the squad. I want to thank him for all he has given to the fire department and I hope and pray he will remain with us on the squad- since he is also a part of the all volunteer Life Squad. The Village needs wonderful people like Jeff Carle. Sincerely,

Amy Evans 113 Robinwood

"I stayed the night...because I knew I wouldn't get in," you told me. "I was the only (post office) open in the whole city the next day."

Even as you prepare to leave your post to retire and take care of your mother, you are still thinking of the people of this village, laying to rest the rumors that your departure will signal the close of our post office.

The postal service "just renewed the lease and posted the job," you said. "The lease is good for five years." So, it doesn't appear that the post office is closing any time soon.

You've said that you will miss being in Terrace Park. You treasure the times when people came in during foul weather and asked if you needed anything or brought breakfast during the ice storm and black out.

"Just about everybody is so nice and so good to you," you said. "I've had so many offers to spend the night (instead of sleeping in the back room)."

"I want to thank everybody for being there," you said. "Everybody has been so wonderful."

Your last day is December 31 and it is my hope that everyone will take the time to stop in that day and make it extra special for you.

National Geographic ocean explorer Sylvia Earle to speak at luncheon

The Seven Hills School's 22nd Annual Books for Lunch is proud to present as its 2008 guest author marine biologist and National Geographic explorer Dr. Sylvia Earle. She is co-founder and director of Deep Ocean Engineering, Inc. and president of Deep Ocean Exploration and Research, Inc. The author luncheon, which is open to the community, will take place Friday, February 8, at noon at the Kingsgate Marriott Conference Center at the University of Cincinnati Clifton Campus. The Dinner with the Author will take place at the home of Seven Hills parents on Thursday, February 7, at 6:30 pm.

Dr. Sylvia Earle has been called "Her Deepness" by The New Yorker and The New York Times and the "Carl Sagan of our Oceans" by USA Today. She has led more than 50 expeditions worldwide involving more than 6,000 hours underwater, and she set the record for the deepest solo untethered dive (3,000 feet) into the Pacific Ocean.

Happy Holidays!

Hostess Linda Rockaway (above) and her husband, John, again this year opened their historic home, Gravelotte, to members of the Terrace Park Historical Society (TPHS) for their annual holiday party Thursday, Dec. 6. The party included a brief business meeting, where out-going president Susan Abernethy Frank introduced her successors, Jack Brown and Laurie Baird. She reported that in the early weeks of the TPHS annual membership campaign, the organization accepted six life memberships at $1,000 each and many other memberships at the individual, family, heritage and corporate/patron levels.

High School Holiday Fair offered festive fare

On November 30, the students of Mariemont High School celebrated their 9th annual Holiday Fair event for the district community. Every booth and activity at the fair was sponsored by a student team, club or student organization. With a little organizational help from PTO members, Sandra Taylor, Jenny Whitaker and Beth Smith and assistant principal, Tom Crosby, the students took the holiday ball and ran with it.

A sampling of offerings at this year's event were karaoke with the Orchestra, ping pong with the Girls Tennis Team, gourmet popcorn with the Chess Team, video games with the Freshman class and Boys Basketball and goldfish fishing with the Band. The Spanish Club even provided strolling musicians to serenade the holiday crowd. That's just a few of over 30 games, crafts, treats and gift/sportswear sales that entertained pre-schoolers through grandparents. Hungry folk enjoyed the PTO's spaghetti/pizza dinner and adults supported the popular silent auction.

Each participating Mariemont High School student group uses its Holiday Fair proceeds in different ways. The Environmental Club purchases recycling bins for classrooms and furnishes seasonal plants and flowers for the school entrance. The Orchestra is saving to purchase instrument travel cases. Key Club puts some of its money towards service scholarships. Warriors with Wings sportsmanship group and Leadership Council use a portion of their funds to make the a success all around. The high

Terrace Park Historical Society Tracking our past and present for the future

By Carol C. Cole

I hope everyone is aware that Phase 1 of Terrace Park's Zoning Code revision is complete and in use. Now the challenge in Phase 2 is to make some further and perhaps more controversial additions that will help to preserve the muchloved character of Terrace Park and still make room for homeowners to modernize and even add space to their homes. I hope in the New Year there will be a chance for all Terrace Park homeowners to participate in a discussion concerning what they like about Terrace Park now and what they see as ways to maintain what we have. Please be watching for ways in which you can express your opinions and then take the time to do so.

Of course there are homes in Terrace Park that have remained almost unchanged since the day they were built. Helen Christopher Barnett's home at 215 Oxford is one of these. It was built for Helen's parents, Raymond and Pearl Breiling Christopher, in1912/13 probably by local builder Charles W. Cornish (725 Wooster Pike). It's interesting that it was designed by E. J. Schulte but has many features of a Sears bungalow and yet is not a Sears house. Helen inherited the home from her mother and has lived there most of her 91 years. Ruth Clayton has lived in her 761 Wooster Pike home since she was 2 years old. She was born on Given Road but then moved here when her father, local builder Fred Strathmann, built this home for the family in 1924. Ruth inherited the home from her mother, Elizabeth Strathmann.

Other homes in Terrace Park have been enlarged with additions very much in keeping with the original or altered architecture of the home. I'm sure I've cited before the Victorian cottage at 303 Oxford as well as the home backing up to it at 300 Rugby, originally built in 1880 looking very much like 303 Oxford. Probably in 1914 the Victorian cottage was greatly enlarged and changed to look essentially as it does today. Two homes being worked on very appropriately now are 202 Harvard Avenue and 307 Oxford Avenue. Victorian 202 Harvard was probably built by the same builder who built the then next-door home at 214 Harvard. Two Moran daughters from 214 Harvard married Grace cousins and one couple built and lived at 202 Harvard. "Four-Square" 307 Oxford is having an addition built but in the same style as the original home.

As you look around Terrace Park today, think about why you moved here and what are the Ter-

St. Thomas may be used for emergency

Police Chief Jerry Hayhow reported that approval by the Hamilton County Health Department has been given for the use of St. Thomas Church as a dispensing center for medicine in the case of a state-wide emergency. This is the first step in this program, and he said that there is still a lot to be attended meetings, pertaining done in developing this program.

Bill Fiedler, when asked if perdown, said that builders are primarily working on projects which are alterations or remodeling work. He said that it has, and will slow down, as everyone watches the housing market.

Councilman Stefan Olson reported on a meeting that was held where a presentation was delivered by Margo Warminiski from the Cincinnati Preservation Society. He estimated attendance of approximately 30 people. He noted that these were the same people who have to zoning, year in and year out. Warminiski sent him a copy of a form that is to be filled out by residents and returned to the committee. The form requests citizen input regarding their thoughts about the community in general, and what zoning issimilar form. Olson's wish is that residents would respond phase of zoning code.

Strings musicians honored

Five strings musicians from Mariemont Junior High School were chosen to play in a Middle School Honors Orchestra with students from four different states. Maren Machles (standing, far left) and Elizabeth Keller (seated, far left) are both from Terrace Park. The honors orchestra performed in a concert at Morehead State University on October 10.

Students revisit America's Progressive Era

The students at Mariemont Junior High turned back the calendar about a 100 years or so. Each 7th grade student was assigned an identity and an event relevant to the time period from 1890 - 1920, or America's Progressive Era.

The roles included ship builders, suffragists, immigrants, politicians, working children, coal miners and athletes. From the Titanic to Texas oil, from muckraking to moving motion pictures, the range of significant events was wide and varied.

Each student researched their role and event, wrote an essay and assumed that identity to present their findings. The language arts assignment was given in conjunction with studying Thornton Wilder's play, Our Town.

Mariemont Junior High 7th grade students Rosie Ecker, Sally Portman, Oliver Mauk and Erik Flynn assumed the roles of Progressive Era characters.

Mariemont students attend Pride in America and Cincinnati conference

The Greater Cincinnati Chapter of Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge sponsored two Mariemont High School students to attend a leadership conference November 7. Juniors Claire Cascella and Jennifer Hutchinson participated in the "Pride in America and Cincinnati - Young Patriots Leadership Conference.

Eighty juniors and seniors from 30 Cincinnati area schools were given scholarships to attend the conference. The program included role playing of past and current Cincinnati heroes, a presentation on Cincinnati's arts, music, sports, businesses, universities and charities, and a team/leadership group activity guided by University of Cincinnati's Honors Plus Business school. Speakers for the conference were Dr. Odell Owens, Hamilton County Coroner and Tom Streicher, Cincinnati Chief of Police.
