Residents voice concerns at December council

By Susan House and Chandi Findley

Volume XXXIV Issue 1

ber Village Council meeting, residents addressed their concerns about recent turnover in the fire department

Sue Maggard, 102 Marion Lane, said that the succinct announcement that Jeff Carle had resigned as the fire department chief was "not the whole story..." Maggard also said that actions by village leaders surrounding Carle's resignation were not the treatment a long-time volunteer deserved.

"Jeff Carle has served as a volunteer fireman for 26 years, and still serves on the life squad," She said. "This certainly is not the treatment I would expect the Village to have toward volunteers, when we try to have life squad and fire department volunteers, and have difficulty getting enough people to dedicate the amount of time and professionalism that's required."

Maggard said that she was concerned that the reason Carle's resignation was requested was due to "paperwork." She explained that it some recent revelations in terms of

At the beginning of the Decemand on the part of the insurance company for minute documentation for everything concerning the life squad and fire department. She said that Connie Wilson and John Maggard, on behalf of the life squad, had (at the time of the meeting) already spent 80 hours determining procedures that are already in, or must be put in place, for the EMS department.

> "I believe that Jeff was trying to do the same for the fire department, but there was a concern about the speed at which that was taking place, which was the reason for the request for resignation," she said. "I think that the circumstances are probably much more rich than that.

"As neighbors I think we need to respect each other. Jeff is not on the fire department right now, he is on the life squad, but the fire department needs people, and needs people that have a special certification such as Jeff Carle," Maggard said. "So what I would ask of this Council is to consider requesting is her understanding that there are that Jeff would consider becoming a member of the fire department the requirement for the State for Ohio again. I don't know that he would ever want to be chief again, but, at Inspector and training officer. least, he would be a fire department member. I suggest that request should come with an apology for the way that he was treated."

Next to speak was Tony Lehman, 718 Miami. Lehman voiced his concerns that both he and Carle had been asked to resign. First, he addressed his own career and qualifications regarding firefighting.

"I am, or was, a volunteer on the Terrace Park Fire Department, I retired this afternoon," Lehman said. "I probably served for sixteen years. As many of you know, I am a professional firefighter, in fact the only professional firefighter on the Terrace Park Fire department."

"In my career. I have made greater than 15,000 runs, so far, as a professional firefighter. To put that in perspective, I would have to be on Terrace Park's Fire Department for 300 years to get that kind of experience".

Lehman said that the State awarded him both "The Valor Award" for his work as a firefighter and the "Star of Life" for his work with emergency medical services. Lehman also said that he is Terrace Park Fire

Lehman then talked about his perception of the way he was treated by village leaders.

"I am getting the same treatment as Jeff Carle did," he said. "I was asked to resign, under threats."

Finally, Lehman suggested that Carle be re-instated as fire chief and events surrounding his and Carle's resignation be investigated.

"... I think that he should be reinstated," Lehman said. "I think this should be looked into."

Within his closing statements, Councilman Jim Muennich said, "I would like to state, based on the comments made earlier, if any one has questions or comments to me. I am a public servant. My number is in the book. Anyone can have my ear, who has questions about the statements that were brought up tonight and their interpretation."

Last meeting for Koreman, Brown and Williams

As the December meeting was the final meeting for outgoing

Councilmen Jeff Koreman, Jack Brown and Treasurer Larry Williams, the mayor, council members, and the administrative staff thanked Brown, Koreman and Williams for their dedicated service to the Village.

Koreman was noted for his management during the construction of the new Fire Department/ EMS building, and the improvements to the Community Building. Brown was especially thanked for his dedication to the Public Works projects that he oversaw during his term.

These three dedicated volunteers will be missed by council and Village residents.

The students utilized teamwork, creativity and science and math skills. It was the school's and the students first time participating in these tournaments.

The judging consisted of two parts: research presentation and the robotics/programming. The students had to audit a community building and research an alternative energy source for it. The students then had to come up with a way of sharing this information with the to carry out a variety of different missions. All of the missions were made out of Legos.

Both teams, the Warriors and the Bulldogs, had a great experience at the tournaments. The Bulldogs at the Lakota tournament earned a first place trophy for Teamwork Judging – quite a feat for a

Lewis and Clark era brought to life by TPHS presentator

The Terrace Park Historical Society's next public program will be Feb. 24 in the Terrace Park Community Building and will feature John Cimarosti, an authority on the Lewis and Clark Expedition. Refreshments will be served at 3:30 p.m.; the program will follow at 4 p.m.

Cimarosti, a Hyde Park resident and naturalist with the Hamilton County Park District for 17 years, is a volunteer with the Discovery Expedition of St. Charles, Mo. The nonprofit group, dedicated to rediscovering the legacy of Lewis and Clark, takes its name from the designation Thomas Jefferson gave the original band of U.S. Army recruits.

By bringing Lewis and Clark to life along the banks of the Ohio, Mississippi and Missouri Rivers and in classrooms and gyms —

Discovery Expedition reenactors like Cimarosti have helped more than 80,000 school children and countless adults experience history as high adventure. Cimarosti will be dressed in period clothing for his presentation in Terrace Park and some of his periodstyle belongings will be on display during the program.

More about the Terrace Park Market, the Post Office and early Village Council Meetings

By Carol C. Cole

Gegner-Droescher building at 411 Terrace Place

The Terrace Park Historical Society is really pleased with the many people who are supporting us through their memberships. We currently have 34 Lifetime Memberships. Those people can choose what size copy they'd like of Rosie Shundich's watercolor of the Terrace Park Market. Along with it they get some information concerning what shows in the painting, taken from a postcard postmarked 1908. However, there's a lot more to know about that building and others in the area.

James W. Sibley established his first of four subdivisions in 1886, south of Oxford Avenue to the north side of Amherst Avenue. Probably that same year or a bit later he had a house built facing Terrace Place (411 Terrace Place) a couple of lots down from where the Terrace Park Market later stood. That was a Victorian Queen Anne style three-bedroom frame house, bought by Mrs. Harriett Gegner in 1891. The 1893 Hamilton County Directory lists "Gegner, Mrs. Harriet M., books, post master and railroad agent." The building shows on the 1892 map of Terrace Park, the only building in that block and is marked Post Office on the 1892 map of Sibley's subdivision. On Sibley's map there's also a train station across the tracks of the Little Miami Railroad and a Grocery store marked on the corner of Amherst Avenue and Newtown Road, later renamed Elm Avenue.

Terrace Park was incorporated early in 1893 and obviously needed a place for its council to meet. At first they had an arrangement with Dr. Lansdale to meet in his Elm Avenue office. For some reason by September of 1893 their meeting place was changed to the room over the Post Office, which they rented from Mrs. Gegner. It's interesting that there were then nine places where public notices had to be posted: Beck's Grocery (corner of Amherst and Elm?), the Station, luen's Tavern (at the crossroads on Wooster Pike), the house of Village Clerk Voige (101 Miami), the large sycamore in front of Mr. Floto's house (he was mayor), the school, near the Baptist Church (Community House), Robinson's Station and the big tree in Marietta Avenue.

A resolution was passed on January 30th, 1903: "On November 19th the Council of this Village adopted a resolution for the issuing of bonds in the sum of Fifteen Hundred and Fifty ($1550.00) Dollars for the purpose of raising money to purchase real estate for a Town Hall and Offices for the Village." Thus it looks as if the Village wanted their own building and not to have to rent very from Mrs. Gegner.

We have the original plans for that building on the corner of Harvard Avenue and Terrace Place, drawn by James L. Chapman Sr. The plans show there was already a building a bit back from the corner with a door opening onto Harvard Avenue. The new building just added on to the front with a much grander entrance opening onto Terrace Place. In fact it was a building very similar to Mrs.

We do not know whether James Sr. had any formal education to become an architect or may have just been apprenticed to an architect and learned that way. However, he designed the Terrace Park School as well as the store and 618 Yale Avenue where they lived for a while. Later they bought 100 acres on Shawnee Run and ran the Chapman Dairy. It may have been in one of the dairy farm's barns that the plans for the Terrace Park Market were found. Mary Chapman also gave us blueprints - but neither copies include dates.

Lucius Conkling was a relative of James Chapman and had his home built at 615 Amherst Avenue in 1891/2. His family had been in the area since 1803 when Lucius' grandfather, Abraham, moved from Morristown New Jersey to Indian built was owned by James W. Sibley in 1886, the year he established his first subdivision. It was sold to Barbara C. Keene that year, then to George B. Keiser in 1898, then to Helen Barnett's relative, Emil M. Rauscher, in 1899 and finally to the Village of Terrace Park in 1903 for the purpose of building a "Town Hall". The ground floor was rented to Lucius Conkling. He and his wife served successively as grocers and postmasters from 1903-1921. The Village used the upstairs as a Town Hall, council chambers and polling place. It also served as a community center where functions including dances were held. One reached the 2nd floor through the old side door on Harvard Avenue. The Village owned the building until 1925 when they no longer needed it for Council Meetings or other activities because they had moved to the present Community House on Elm Avenue.

year in 1920-21 in a small building no one seemed interested in buying on what later became the Village Green. Mrs. Gegner sold her home in 1921 to Lulu Tarvin who then became postmaster, followed in 1925 by Lillian Droescher for 25 years, until Effie Miller took over and built the present Post Office in 1953. Harriet Gegner, Lulu Tarvin and Lillian Droescher all were storekeepers at 411 Terrace Place.

The Conkling home facing the Village Green stayed in the family until probably 1950 when it was sold to Bolton Drackett. Store keepers after the Conklings included Louis & Elsie E. Bosch, Hugh M. & Elisabeth B. Gallagher (732 Miami), John Barnett, Durward Hughes (304 Miami), William R. & Carolyn M. Vinnage, Louis & Carolyn Farnbach Braunheim. We are very fortunate that Paul remembered fondly visiting the market almost daily. Thus rather than tearing down the building that had served the community well for so many years, Paul restored the original peaked roof, destroyed in an earlier fire, and set his addition back on one side so the original dimensions of the market are still clear.

Mariemont School Board recognizes dedication and achievement

The December meeting of the Mariemont City Schools Board of unteers who worked tirelessly to Education (BOE) offered an opportunity to recognize some people who have made significant contributions of time and talent to the school district.

The Board, staff and community members expressed their appreciation to Rick Koehler for his 12 years of BOE service as this was the final meeting of his three-term commitment. Mariemont superintendent Paul Imhoff adds, "Rick's energy and vision has been an inspiration and we are all appreciative of his work to maintain the high standards of the Mariemont Schools."

Board member. Huenefeld, was congratulated on receiving the Al Kettlewell award for outstanding Board service from the Southwest Region of the Ohio School Board Association. Huenefeld will begin her sixth term as a board of education member this month.

In addition, two district teachers, Monica Hurley and Becky Rusen, were recognized for achieving National Board Certification.

The BOE also thanked the volmake their recent school levy campaign a success. Honored were levy co-chairs Robin Pendery and Bill Flynn along with their steering committee comprised of parents, district residents, staff and administrators who put in countless volunteer hours toward this effort.

"This is a great tradition you game. The alums and current team guys have started, and it will provide many great times and memories in the future" said Coach Tad George, who is entering his seventh season as MHS boys head lacrosse coach. Coach George has led the Warriors to the state finals twice in the past five years, and is looking to repeat as State Champions in 2008. "The Program" has progressed in the community to represent an element of our sports culture that we can all be proud of. It

Schroeder who first pioneered lacrosse in the Village of Terrace Park fifteen years ago, prior to the establishment of the Bull Dog youth program in 1996 by the TPRC.

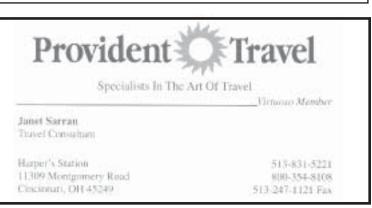

"The kids coming through the program now often have 5+ years is a tribute to Rick Dunning, Matt of playing experience prior to en-Perry, Jamie Egasti, and Reed tering high school, so they are very good even as frosh players" said Coach George. This was ably demonstrated during the alumni game by Nick "Stickwork" Stirsman, Tim "Sniper" Purcell, Chase "Daytona" Beach, and Christopher "Critty" Ferguson, all of whom were standouts in the youth and Mariemont middle school programs. The annual alumni lacrosse game is held on the Saturday following Thanksgiving each year on Stanton Field and has become a great Terrace Park lacrosse tradition.
