

Residents urged to volunteer at May Council Meeting

By Vivian Krueger

John Maggard, Life Squad Chief, congratulated the three newest recruits for successfully passing their State of Ohio written and practical exams. Only the National Registry tests need to be completed to begin running as TP Emergency Services (EMS) volunteers.

PLEASE VOLUNTEER to serve on the Fire and EMS squads. Maggard reported that EMS recently lost several valued members and must keep the ranks up by recruiting and training resident volunteers. TP has the best and up-to-date equipment, training and vehicles, but cannot exist as a viable agency without volunteers to step up and help the effort.

All that is required is a commitment to serve and a willingness to attend a training course offered in Terrace Park at no charge. Volunteers will gain skills that can be used over a life time and help preserve a valuable and (continued on page 4)

Hidden in Plain Sight event

More than 100 guests arrive to tour the exhibit at Hidden In Plain Sight, recently hosted by the Warrior Coalition. This program and interactive exhibit of a teenager's bedroom educated attendees about teenage risky behavior. Topics included drug abuse and the creative ways that kids are concealing illegal substances; binge drinking, prescription drug abuse and sexting.

Terrace Park resident, Melanie Stutenroth; Terrace Park Mayor Jay Gohman; Terrace Park Police Chief Jerry Hayhow; and Amanda Conn Starner, Local Coalition Development Manager for Coalition for a Drug Free Greater Cincinnati helped to organize the Hidden In Plain Sight event for the adults of the Mariemont School District

Mariemont City Schools announces 5.95-mill levy Nov. ballot

Last levy lasted one year longer than projected

By Josephine Mckenrick, Mariemont City Schools

The Mariemont City Schools Board of Education took the first of two necessary votes on April 15 to place a 5.95-mill operating levy on the November 4, 2014 ballot. This request comes after the district prolonged the preceding levy to last a year longer than expected. Passage of the upcoming operating levy will allow the district to maintain the high-quality academic programming for students that the community has come to expect as well as eliminate the need for any other operating levy request for three years, according to Ken White, board president.

After gathering community input, the 5.95 millage is the lowest option the school board considered for voter approval. This lean levy request comes with the commitment of continued efficiencies and savings in the district's budget for the next three years.

"Our district continues to show excellent fiscal stewardship and is a tremendous value," said Tom Golinar, treasurer. "We stretched the previous levy to last one year longer than promised, all while reducing $1.8 million from our budget and minimum support from the state. We continue to manage our finances in a conservative manner and look for ways to be more efficient every day."

The district's $1.8 million in reductions since 2010 reflects the elimination of 16 staff positions and a number of other cost-saving measures, such as shared services with other districts and businesses. That $1.8 million equates to 6 mills that district residents were not asked to make up. Looking ahead, the district expects continued loss in funding from the state; in fact, the state's contribution to the Mariemont City Schools' budget is half of what was 10 years ago.

"Mariemont City Schools remains excellent in every way thanks to the support of this community," stated Steven Estep, superintendent. "Our students have amazing opportunities and devoted teachers and staff, and we (continued on page 4)

News from the Terrace Park Tree Committee

Over the last year, our village has experienced the loss of a great many of our ash trees. The sounds of chain saws are common, and more and more gaps are appearing in the village tree canopy. Now, just as residents were becoming resigned to this situation, a new threat has appeared: The Asian Longhorned Beetle (ALB).

Originally detected in New York in 1996, it is believed that the beetle arrived in the US from China in wooden pallets. This invasive pest has no known natural predators and is very damaging to many native hardwood trees. According to the USDA, "Both larval and adult beetles feed on living tree tissue. Immature insects, growing inside the tree, bore through tissue that carries water from tree roots and nutrients from the leafy canopy above. Once the pest has sufficiently disrupted those pathways, the infected tree will die." Pesticides are useless against this pest as they are produced by inches of wood.

In 2011 the beetle was observed in Clermont County and the Ohio Department of Agriculture has established a quarantine in that area. However, there are no guarantees that our trees will be spared. Some of the most vulnerable trees in our area include Maple, Box Elder, Sycamore, Buckeye, Birch, Willow, Elm, Mimosa, Hackberry, Katsura Tree, Ash, Golden Rain Tree, London Plane, Poplar, Cottonwood, Aspen and Mountain Ash.

As a result, you may notice that the new trees being planted to replace our lost street trees are not among these familiar species. Village arborist, Mark Castator, has chosen trees from species that are not vulnerable to infestations by the ALB. A current list includes Forest Pansy Redbud, Tupelo (Black Gum), American Hornbeam, Canadian Redbud, Pecan, Hickory, Sassafras, Japanese Ivory Silk Lilac, Sourwood, and Zelkova.

For more information on the ALB, the USDA has created a website: asianlonghornedbeetle.com.

The adult ALB (Asian Longhorned Beetle) is a distinctive-looking insect with the following unique characteristics:
 1 ½ inches in length
 Long antennae banded with black and white (longer than the insect's body)
 Shiny, jet black body with distinctive white spots
 Six legs
 May have blue feet

Letters to the editor:

In response to Mayor Gohman's comment asking residents not to be fooled into supporting the Little Miami Conservancy (previously Little Miami Inc.), I ask you to check out their website www.littlemiami.org.

Not only did this group, 47 years ago, work to establish Ohio's first national wild and scenic river, but they continue the work they started. They pick up literally tons of trash each year, plant trees (40,000 in the last three years), check water quality and sites for dangerous species and dumping. One hundred and three nature preserves have been created along the river along with setbacks which prevent pollution and maintain scenic views.

Little Miami runs a small educational museum in Loveland. They educate students on environmental matters and have provided canoe floats for interested persons.

I have been connected with this organization for 28 years and am proud of what they have accomplished in protecting the river which flows past two sides of Terrace Park and enhances our village.

Jones to retire after 44 years of services to MCS

The school board office is hosting an open house to celebrate the retirement of Becky Jones, who has served this community as the assistant to the superintendent for the Mariemont City School District for 44 years.

The entire school district community is invited stop by and thank her for her decades of service to the district. Mariemont Mayor Dan Policastro will give a proclamation as well. Drinks and light refreshments will be provided. The open house is scheduled for 9 a.m. – 11 a.m. on Monday, June 9 at the Board of Education office, located behind Mariemont High School at 2 Warrior Way, 45227.

continue to compete with the very best public and private schools. This levy will help ensure that we continue to provide the utmost in quality education for our scholars of today.”

Passage of the November 4 levy would allow the district to continue to direct important funding to the classroom, and the district will keep looking for ways to be as efficient as possible, said Estep. “Spending priorities and dollars allocated to the classroom will continue to be aligned to the instructional goals of the district.”

Failure of the November 4 levy would also come with a cost. In the coming months, the district will identify the reductions that would occur if the November 4 levy does not pass.

“This is about preparing responsibly for all scenarios and communicating those transparently with our community,” stated Estep. “The board is committed to the passage of this levy in order to protect the purposeful, quality education that our district offers through diverse academic programming.”

The 5.95-mill operating levy will cost $208.25 annually per $100,000 home market value. If passed, collection will begin in January 2015. This operating levy will fund the day-to-day operations of the district, such as staffing, utilities and supplies. None of the funds from this levy will be used for the construction of new facilities.

In May the Mariemont Board of Education is expected to vote on the second and final vote required to place the issue on the ballot.

valued service to the community. There is a list of members inside the front of the TP Directory and residents may be surprised to find who is currently giving time and effort to maintain professional, quality medical service 24/7 to Terrace Park families. No medical background is required — just a desire to help and give back in a very important way. A new recruit class will begin in September. PLEASE consider joining Fire/EMS.

Luke Frey, Fire Chief urged TP residents to step up and join the fire department. The roster needs to grow. Please call Luke at 513-615-6750. This is an outstanding group of volunteers. In May, training will be with the East Group for the state’s “search” trailer. This training teaches how to maneuver, find your way in and out and how to keep positional awareness in limited fire visibility.

On July 16, Lt. Chin, Chief Maggard and Chief Frey have scheduled school safety training at TP Elementary with a command center on the Village Green. This will begin at 9 a.m. and the Hamilton County SWAT and a Command Vehicle will be included in this training.

Mayor Jay Gohman made an Arbor Day Proclamation for April 25, 2014. This is posted in the Village office. The mayor urged residents to plant trees on their property. Please call the Village office if any alterations/additions are planned for home improvements.

Bob Malloy, Solicitor, reported that the Village’s Martin Marietta brief is due and will be completed by the end of April.

Police Chief, Gerald Hayhow, announced a drug take back to drop off old medicines will take place April 26. Call the Village Office for more information.

Councilman Tom Tepe, Planning and Zoning, urges citizens to STOP dumping yard/grass clippings along the bike trail. It looks unsightly. Simply take it to the recycle area. Tepe urges citizens to settle small disputes with neighbors instead of calling the police.

Councilman Jeff LeMay, Finance, presented and Council approved a resolution to empower the assistant fiscal officer to revise the 2014 appropriation budget, including the $75,000 from the state to repair the street by the Elm underpass, the inclusion of OVI fines to fund “Interlock” for indigents and adjusting the underfunding of personnel health insurance for 2014 reimbursements.

Cole visits school to discuss Ukraine and Russia

By Josephine McKenrick, Mariemont City Schools

Students in Mariemont High School's History, Government and Sociology classes attended a presentation from Terrace Park resident Lee Cole on the current crisis between Ukraine and Russia.

Cole represents the Cincinnati Economic Initiative project, which gives advice to countries, businesses and individuals trying to transition to a modern capitalistic system. Cole has traveled to Ukraine more than 20 times since it gained its independence two decades ago, and he is very active in the Mariemont Kiwanis Club, volunteering his time and expertise on the subject to try to bring a better level of understanding about the situation to both students and community members.

Cole covered topics such as Ukraine's current economic situation, recent election results and the people's demands, such as honesty in government, fair taxation and freedom of the press.

Student comments on the program included the following:

"It gave me insight as to where the world stands with Russia and how the world is responding to the crisis." - Bailey Vianello

"Not only was I given a look on what's going on in Ukraine, but this was all told by a man who has been to Ukraine 20 times and Russia twice. One of the more surprising things he told us was about how he was being watched while in Russia; to the extent of even bugging his room. Overall it was a great presentation and really opened my eyes on what's going on in eastern Europe." - John Fening

"The fact that we were able to hear about this from a first-hand source made it much more special. He provided details about his relationships and findings that no textbook could match." - Aaron Urevick.

"I really appreciated him coming in because for most students it is hard to comprehend the crisis just from the glimpses we get of it on the news." - Spencer Stutenroth

"I thought Mr. Cole did a good job connecting modern events with historical events. It showed me the importance of studying history, and I hope we get more speakers like Mr. Cole; people who are passionate about world events."

Pride Survey Results: Coming Together to Help Our Children

Editor's note: Every few weeks, Mariemont Schools Superintendent Steve Estep is posting a blog at <http://www.mariemontschools.org/about/blog/9625>. Following is an excerpt from his April 9, 2014 posting.

As parents, community members, teachers and administrators, we all share a common goal of wanting our students to feel safe and supported, not only within the four walls of our school buildings but also in the community and beyond. We want our Leaders of Tomorrow to have a confident and cultivated awareness of their abilities as well as their limitations.

Every two years, in partnership with the Coalition for a Drug-Free Greater Cincinnati, we administer the Pride Survey to our 7th-12th grade students in Mariemont City Schools. The Pride Survey is a tool that measures behavior on many crucial issues that can affect learning: substance use and abuse, discipline and safety. This year, a total of 666 district students completed the survey, providing us with valuable insight.

You will find the survey results posted in the Blackboard Parent Portal... After reviewing the survey results, one of the most important take-aways for me is that our school district, like most, is not immune from student use of tobacco, drugs and alcohol. And although our results are fairly consistent with regional data, it is concerning to me that any of our students are finding ways to use these dangerous substances. We can – and should – all find more ways to be more vigilant and involved...

From the moment the students enter our doors here at Mariemont City Schools, we try to instill in them the confidence and education necessary to make smart choices, become leaders and strive for individual achievement. The Pride Survey and programs like "Hidden in Plain Sight" are just a couple of the tools that we can use as adults and role models to make sure that we are equipping our children with the knowledge and skills they need to grow and thrive as children, as teenagers, as students and, eventually, as adults...

Wise guys.

We both know a smart move when we see it. For Dad, it was Deupree House. When he's not working out you may find him at the symphony or enjoying happy hour with friends. And we know his future is secure even if his financial resources run low or his health care needs change. It's a promise in writing, one they've kept for 60 years. Plus, there are options with no entrance fees, and no long-term commitment is ever required. Dad's never been one to settle. And at Deupree House, he'll never have to. Contact Gini Tarr at 513.561.4200 or visit deupreehouse.com/plattners.

We provide the options, you make the choices.

Deupree House in Hyde Park is a community of Episcopal Retirement Homes, where all faiths are welcome.
