Desvernine appointed to Village Council

Eugene Desvernine was sworn in as a Council member prior to the regular Council meeting June 11. He fills the vacancy created by the resignation of Kent Smith.

Gene will be chairman of the Rules & Law Committee as well as a member of the Building and Grounds, and Planning and Zoning Committees.

He has been an active member of the Recreation Commission, is the president of the Terrace Park Swimming Club and has been a member of the swim club's board of trustees since October 1972.

Originally from Cuba, Gene came to the U.S. in 1960. He has been with Proctor & Gamble's Legal Division since graduation from law school in 1969.

Gene, his wife Linda and daughter Amy, live at 811 Myrtle.

The Kent Smith family moved to Los Angeles, California in mid-June. Kent will be vice president and general manager of General Hydrolic Corp. of Los Angeles, California.

Hearing on zoning, budget

Rezoning of two areas for recreation evoked lively discussion as some two dozen residents assembled at a public hearing held at the Community Building on Tuesday evening, June 11. Under review was a proposed ordinance to rezone the school playfield to Recreation A and the landfill-Log Cabin area to Recreation B. The difference between A and B is that B allows picnicking and camping by permit from the Police Department. Both areas currently are zoned Residence A.

Mayor Corbin opened discussion, with village engineer Carl Lindell, a member of the Planning Commission, stressed it is the group's intent to preserve and retain sufficient open-space areas throughout the Park.

The School Board owns the playfield and the Village owns the Cabin-landfill area. Solicitor Leming pointed out that schools are not governed by zoning but that once the property is sold the new owner must conform to area zoning requirements.

Concern was expressed that the School Board may someday sell the playfield and permit the land to be divided for home sites. The Board, earlier notified of the hearing, had written of their inability to attend the hearing since they were meeting the same evening to discuss the zoning change and requested action be tabled until they could comment.

Residents expressed concern that zoning changes would adversely affect their property value. Some objected to specific wording of parts of the proposed ordinance, terms such as "barriers" and "structures." Several spoke out firmly against permitting camping at the landfill-Log Cabin area, believing this Wilderness Preserve (where a specific area has recently been cleared for such use).

Finally, a suggestion was made that the Wilderness Preserve (now zoned Residence B) also be classed as a recreational zone area.

No action was taken on the changes. The ordinance must pass three separate readings before it becomes law. The proposal has been returned to committee for reworking before the ordinance will be presented for its first reading.

Another hearing, on the proposed 1975 budget, came next. Corbin emphasized that next year's increase will cover only maintenance of present services (at inflated costs), and does not include any expanded or new items.

A property tax increase of about 5 mills is viewed as the best source for new revenue. Corbin stated this solution was more practical than an earnings or income tax. The new commercial strip along Wooster will bring in some extra revenue, but it was stated the cost of additional village responsibilities and services will reduce this added income.

The budget item eliciting the most comment from residents was the cost of police protection. Corbin responded that several years ago Villagers approved a millage increase that would insure 24 hour, 7 day-a-week service and "this costs money."

It was stressed that the new fire pumper is being purchased from the Improvement Fund and would not be bought through any tax increase. The money already is in the fund for this purchase.

Finally Mayor Corbin emphasized that our's is a volunteer fire fighting organization and "we owe it to these volunteers to provide reliable, workable

Council on fire truck purchase

A special meeting of council was held Tuesday, May 28, for three items of business.

Of major concern was the purchase of a new fire pumper. National standards recommend a pumper be retired after 20 years service. Bids were let in February.

Finance chairman Dick Bowman gave a quick review of Ohio's insurance rating system. Terrace Park currently enjoys the best rating possible for a voluntary department. Factors which affect a rating include such things as population, density are confident, their trust will also help enlist additional volunteers."

After this thorough and responsible review, Safety Chairman Dick Griffith addressed the group saying "we must move forward on the purchase." Therefore Dick moved acceptance of a two-part ordinance, one part authorizing purchase of a new fire chassis from Fuller Ford at a cost of $13,838, and the second for purchase of a pumper body from the Alleghany Co. for $36,772. Total price: $50,610. Acceptance of each bid to be contingent on acceptance of the other.

Griffith's motion was seconded by Bill Ryan and passed unanimously, as did the second and third emergency readings.

The second item on the agenda was the expiration of Hilliard Fjord's term on the Zoning Board of Appeals. Corbin offered Ray Cadwalader's name as successor to Fjord, and this recommendation was accepted by all.

The final matter requiring council action was announcement of Kent Smith's resignation from council. Mayor Corbin accepted Kent's departure with deep regret, noting his fine leadership of the Planning and Zoning Committee. Gene Desvernine's name was submitted as Smith's replacement, and this was approved unanimously.

Because of the time consumed at public hearings, council business at the June 11 meeting was kept to a minimum. Highlights included:

Postponement on a budget vote till July.

Acceptance of the M & D Waste Collection bid which virtually renews their current service.

Approval of second and third readings of the ordinance which sets class salary ranges for the Police Department.

Council will next meet of houses, equipment age and condition, sources of water and personnel.

Fire Chief Lee Stegemeyer's stated the 16-year-old pumper is not as reliable as it should be (this past summer it suddenly ceased pumping during a barn fire).

The feasibility of rebuilding the present old pumper was raised. If refurbished "from the axels on up," it still would be rated as 20 years old, thus adversely affecting our insurance rating.

Actual bids were studied, along with inflationary costs. Especially noted were the spiraling prices of brass, copper, and aluminum. The Mayor noted it would be roughly two years till delivery. The payment schedule was reviewed (monies coming from the Capital Improvement Fund, current balance approximately $53,000), as were guarantees and warranties.

Another consideration was housing: a new pumper would require additional height, length and width, to the firehouse. It is difficult to project two years hence as to costs for such remodeling, but one councilman went so far as to hazard a $15,000, "ballpark" figure.

F.D. open house to seek volunteers

In an effort to gain more volunteers, the Fire Department and Life Squad held an open house following the Memorial Day parade.

Signs at the fire house stated the Life Squad was short four people on the night squad, five people on the day squad and five firefighters "for effective operation."

"Since most people double on squad duty and firefighting, the 14 total people doesn't have to really be that high, reported fire chief Lee Stegemeyer.

He explained that housewives mainly handle the day squad calls and the time involved is about one day a week.

The night squad runs from 6 p.m. to midnight for one week out of the month. Assistant chief Bob Terwilligar, head of the Life Squad, said "there is no objection to the switching of days on duty when you have something special going on that will take you out of the Village. This switching enables the squadman to be more flexible in his social life."

As for the shortage of firefighters, Stegemeyer said the addition of squadmen could possibly ease the situation.

Lack of training was voiced by some as a reason for not volunteering. "Training is an on-going people," stated Ringwald. "In a year's time you've covered every subject in the basic firefighting book. The same thing holds true on the Life Squad."

State regulations and department policy is to have any new member trained in all subjects in a 12-month period. Fire and squad drills are each held twice a month, mainly on Monday nights. The Fire Department holds one Sunday drill each month.

What are the requirements? Replies Stegemeyer: "The willingness and desire to help. And when the alarm goes off, you've got to drop everything and respond without delay.

"Most of the volunteers we now have didn't know any more about emergency victim care other than the adhesive bandage -- or about firefighting beyond the garden hose they held in their hand. They learned because they came to drills.

"We require drill attendance once a month as a bare minimum. Naturally, the best training is experience and in many cases we start people out right away but under close supervision."

The shortage is approaching the critical stage and could hamper effective operations. The people to contact are Ted Ringwald at 831-7119, or Lee Stegemeyer at 831-0828, or Bob

National Honor

Society

Beginning this year, a new policy of choosing all members in the spring of their junior year, was adopted by the MHS National Honor Society chapter. Those from Terrace Park are: Kathleen Bailey, Ellen Bailey, Nancy Duesing, Janet Kauffman, Meredith McAllister, and Scott Williams.

FOR SALE

ONE pair wood water skis with tow rope and floatation belt. $20. 831-7348. Excellent condition.

Girl Scouts pay last tribute?

The Girl Scouts of Troop 1431 placed a wreath at the 30-year-old-war memorial on the Village Green at the conclusion of the Memorial Day ceremony and parade.

If plans of the Greens Committee go as scheduled, this World War II Memorial will be dismantled during the next several weeks.

Any citizen wishing to save the old memorial should write Paul Stewart, 610 Lexington, Terrace Park. At that time the writer's name will be placed on a committee to restore and maintain the World War II Memorial to keep it in a presentable condition.

In the event the memorial does come down, any person wanting the name slat of a relative can pick it up at the police station in the Community House.

View from Village Views

Council needs money

In November, Council will possibly be asking for a five mill property tax increase to offset the operating budget of the Village.

While not disagreeing with the need, why not take a more equitable approach?

For example, based on 750 homes and an average income of $10,000 (in 1960, census figures gave Terrace Park income average as more than $12,000), a 1/2% income tax would generate the additional money sought by the proposed mill.

This alternative would create less of a hardship on those who could not afford a property tax increase. The retired couple or the widow on a fixed income would find more difficulty coping with a higher property tax than the couple with an income growing close to the rate of inflation.

Consider also, in the Cincinnati area of Ohio 50 communities have an income tax ranging from 1/4% (Evdendale and Fairfax) to Cincinnati's 2%.

Our surrounding neighbors of Mariemont, Indian Hill and Milford each have an income tax of 1/2%. If they can see the advantage of the income tax, why can't we?

And, as far as new taxes are concerned, how about Council looking into a business profit tax?

The woes of money

Yoo-hoo, where are you?

Last month we bravely stapled self-addressed envelopes to your Village Views. We had high hopes that our business manager, Betsy Holloway, would be inundated with filled envelopes which would signal moral and financial support for the paper.

Her tally has us wondering. The monetary return, just under $450, is not too bad for the 150 who contributed. However, this is only one resident in five who answered the call.

Last year about 250 sent us $2.00 or more. We had to break into our surplus to break even; this small reserve is dwindling.

Some facts: We couldn't exist without our advertisers, but they can't carry all the load. It costs us about 25¢ per issue to put the paper at your door.

Yoo-hoo, do you hear us?

Letters...

Editor;

I have been waiting to see the Village financial report for 1973, which finally appeared in the Milford Advertiser June 6. This was over three months late from the legal deadline, but perhaps the Village clerk was too busy with Little Miami, Inc.

The balances at the beginning of 1974 were sufficient to finance the Village for over six months without collecting one dollar in revenues. It is apparent that our officials are interested in a high cost operation.

The budget hearing was on June 11.

The real estate tax should be reduced at least three mills. This is simply done thru honest budgeting, which was beyond the ability of the previous Council.

We have all seen the new traffic lights on Wooster. But it hasn't been explained why it took ten lights to replace one which had provided good service for over 20 years. This certainly isn't Times Square.

This overexpenditure became operational with the energy crisis and the power consumption is excessive, but CG&E will never complain.

In the meantime, the intersections at Elm Road, Wrenwood, Wester, Marian and Miami are still uncontrolled. Our good citizens risk their lives daily in dodging the speeding traffic on Wooster.

You would think that the police chief should be interested in highway safety, but he is a busy man with his job at the Indian Hill Water Works and other interests.

There are some folks who say that the State would not approve of traffic lights at these intersections, but this is another excuse to perpetuate the speed trap.

I'm going to Columbus to see the State officials about improving U.S. 50. They will be interested in greater safety on "Bloody Wooster."

Two questions asked

Do you like or dislike the cannons on the green? 78% said they like them. 12% did not like them. 10% had no opinion.

Do you like the position at the memorial?

67% said yes. 4% said no. 29% had no opinion. Estimated age of those questioned

2.5% grade school
6% teen-age
12% teen-age to 35
34% 35 to 50
45.5% over 50

After the survey was completed the Greens Committee, in view of the survey, recommended to Council that the cannons stay on the Green and in their position at the memorial.

Paul R. Stewart
Chairman
Greens Committee
Editor,

In reference to Patti Nor-mile's letter:

The "someone" mentioned who "worked very hard to procure the cannons" was Hans Gehrig. He served in the Navy during W.W.II. After his death a memorial service was held in his honor on the Village Green. His children were born and brought up in Terrace Park. Mrs. Gehrig still lives in their home.

The cannons may be "a bit of nostalgia unwelcome to families who do not even welcome guns as toys for their children," but they are more than a bit of nostalgia, not only welcome, but cherished by those of us who knew Hans, to many who have lived in Terrace Park all their lives, others who have lived their adult lives here, rearing their children in this bucolic enclave; an enclave that was never a swatch of sterile suburbia where there is not so much as a piece of string grandmother saved for welcome nostalgia.

Terrace Park is an old town, governed by dedicated, often harrassed people, unique in its ability to survive the sincere, but misguided onslaughts of reformers.

A generation of little boys played on the cannons, straddled them, whipped their metal steeds into a froth, rode into the wild, blue yonder that little boys dream about.

During WWII an erudite and certainly peaceful young man of today was a general or colonel on Village Green every Saturday morning; each little boy, spitted and polished was ready to march, ambush, follow the orders of his superior officer. The little boys, all middle-aged adults now, are kindly, quite intelligent fathers and not one of their children is in the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Back to the cannons. They "--are active reminders of the hatred between people."

Reminders perhaps, but passive. Passive reminders that a cannon ball shattered great -great-grandfather's leg at Gettysburg; reminders that cannons solve no problems; reminders that cannons are obsolete, fun to play on and are no more a symbol of hatred between people than the match that is used to light a fire on the hearth. Fire was once-- and still is--a formidable weapon.

Quote. "Can you recall how many goals you worked for 25 years ago? Are all those goals relevant today? Maintaining only past goals loses effectiveness and vitality. Let's keep Terrace Park sensitive and alive to today's needs and goals--to peace rather than hostility in public landscaping."

Every goal is relevant, achieved or aborted, good or evil; the very guts and substance of history. Nor does one maintain a goal. One reaches it or falls flat on ones face.

The last sentence. "Come on--let's disarm 'the heart of the Park!'" How sad. Destroy is today's credo. Burn the Phoenix again and again and again. Eden will eventually rise from the ashes.

Lug the cannons from the heart (Village Green?) of Terrace Park, then (quote) "--the soft green carpet of grass by the handcrafted wall in semi-circular shape representing the open-heartedness of Terrace Park residents, flag fluttering--" will please and satisfy the most discerning eye, unblemished by children at play, riding into the wild, blue yonder.

PTA presents scholarships

Lou Ott, retiring president of Terrace Park Elementary PTA, is shown presenting scholarship checks for $200 each to Paul Henley and Allison Hopkins. The two were recipients of the PTA's annual award to MHS graduating seniors. This year, according to Mrs. Ott, the organization was able to give two scholarships because of broad community support of its fund-raising projects.

High School Awards

Terrace Parkers who received special awards at the Music Awards Banquet were: Award: John Philip Sousa Award, Claudia Van Wye; outstanding sophomore, John Henley; head majorette for 1974-75, Betty Porter.

Chorus: National School Choral Award, Sherri Stewart; outstanding senior bass, Rick Hildbold; and outstanding junior bass, Kevin Henderson.

Special sports honors went to these Terrace Parkers at the Spring Sports Award Night: Warrior Award, track - Steve Crowell; M.V.P., girl's track - Ginny McAllister; baseball - Doug Olson; Steve McKee Memorial Scholarship - Andy Auspurger; Life Time Pass Awards - Doug Olson and Andy Augspurger.

MUDDLED MEMO'S AND TRIVIA

Ordinance No 56, passed 24th day of May, 1940, annexed what was known as "Miami Grove" and Edgewater sections south of Elm Road and beyond the ends of the north and south streets to the Little Miami River. This comprised 65 acres, more or less. The west line is just this side of Kunz's feeding area. It is now what is called the Wilderness Preserve, that is the "Miami Grove" area. H.B. Fenton, Mayor and C. M. McChesney was Clerk. On June 11, 1957, the Alvin Hodges offered the Village their rental property in "Miami Grove" for $13,000 subject to life estate. This was finalized under the guidance of Kenneth Troy, Mayor and Melvin Aicholz, Clerk, at that time.

The firemen found a slab at the barn fire on Wooster Pike, in October, 1973. Ted Ringwald stated it was being used as a stepping stone. It is plainly the slab of Wm. Riddle, born September, 1820. Died 1863. Also wife, Isabella, age 104 years. It is at the fire station. The Riddle name is a familiar one but not in this locale. Curiosity is getting me.

When Gene Schott pitched for the Reds back in the '40's, he lived at 807 Lexington Avenue. If he could pitch ball like he could horse shoes, he would still be with them.

Departmental awards went to the following Terrace Park students: Art Key Award - Kathleen Bailey; honorable mention - Peggy Nordloh; Drama - honor thespian - Cyndi Pannkuk and Sherri Stewart; best thespian - Cyndi Pannkuk; special recognition - Greg Bryant, Jon Von Stein. English and history - Terrace Park Women's Club Award for Excellence: Allison Hopkins; environment club - Margaret Maupin.

Outstanding seniors recognized were: cum laude - Paul Henley; Governor's Award for Leadership - Jim Masters; Quill and Scroll - Warpath and Chieftain - Allison Hopkins, Chieftain - Cindy Sauter; National Merit Letter of Commendation - Thomas Durden.

Ordinance No. 22, February 9, 1894, the Village accepted the bid of the Bader Artificial Stone Company for the first sidewalk and that was on Terrace Place. That was for a 4 foot walk at 50¢ per foot and 64¢ for carriage drives. This to be divided between the property owner and the Village. Total for 100 ft. lot equals $51.40 cash. You could pay cash or installments. If you choose not to pay then it was attached to your real estate taxes. and an order to the sheriff of Hamilton County to put the Village in possession. It refers to lot No. 118 of J.B. Sibley's Subdivision and lots No. 3 & 4 of Camden City. I suspect the good sheriff never got around doing it.

Grads, plans

Forty-Six Terrace Parkers were among those recently graduated from Mariemont High School. Those who plan to continue their education by attending Ohio schools are: Andy Augspurger, Ashland College; Robin Bente, Jeff Jacobs, Doug Olson, Joe Resor, Miami U; George Eveland, U.C.; Cathy Gerhardt, Kent State or U.C.; Jeff Griffith, College of Wooster; Susan Konold, and Dale Binkley, Wittenberg; Guy Muller, and John Richardson, Ohio U; Julie Osenbaugh, Ohio Univ. or Kent State; Cynthia Pannkuk, Bethesda School of Nursing; Andy Swensson, and Greg Bryant, Kent State; Linda Williams, Rio Grande College; Sherri Stewart, Edgecliff.

Those going out-of-state to school include: Alan Badanes and Rick Hildbold, Indiana U.; Nancy Collins, U. of Arizona; Cathy Douglas, Newcomb College of Tulane U; Paul Henley, Purdue; Brett Froehlich, Eastern Ky. U.; Alison Hopkins, and Cindy Sauter, Vanderbilt; Thomas Durden, Loyola of Montreal; Brad Kramer, Brigham Young U.; Jim Masters, Citadel; Margaret Maupin, Chatham College; David Pendl, De Pauw; John Rice, New York Tech. or Embry Riddle; Chris Schott, Indiana State; Greg Vogt, U. of Michigan; Karen Young, Ball State; and Fred Dunning, U. of S. Florida.

Seeking employment or undecided are: William Buschmeier, Patricia Gallagher, Van Larkin, Betsy Martin, Diane Nordloh, Laurie Olberding, Gray Smith, Claudia Van Wye, and Chris Reynolds.

ers take mail delivery for granted. It was not always that way. Until March 13, 1960, you had a lock box at the post office and that is where it was until you "robbed" the box. Those were the days when friends met friends, neighbors met neighbors and exchanged trivia, gossip and the state of the Union. Present Building opened July 1, 1953.

It seems as a matter of record that the Village Green or a part thereof was acquired by suit against Carrie Chaney, etc. in Common Pleas Court of Hamilton County, upon payment of $2,500 to the defendant by the Village on November 7, 1930.

Public hearing on sewage plant

There will likely be an adjudication hearing on the mechanical sewage treatment plant proposed by B.B.S. Company to be built a few hundred feet west of Terrace Park's corporation limits. Little Miami Inc. has formally requested such a hearing before the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency.

The sewage facility would serve the Terrace Executive Park scheduled for construction at Elm and Wooster plus other possible developments.

Effluent from the facility would be discharged into the Little Miami River.

L.M.I. has reasoned that the mechanical treatment plant at this location is not consistent with good planning policies, would effect the pollution load allocations from other sources in this segment of the river and is not consistent with O.E.P.A.'s 303 Basin Plan for the Little Miami River.

10 become first class Scouts

Ten Terrace Park girls became first class scouts -- the highest award in Girl Scouts -- on Wednesday, June 5. The awards were presented by Miss Kathy Haley, a field director of the Cincinnati Girl Scout Headquarters.

Girls receiving the awards were: Suzy Bell, Donna Caswell, Barbara Cherry, Sarah Durden, Claire Gerhard, Beth Gilchrist, Elizabeth Huprich, Jenny Shundich, Vicki Smith and Jenny Watkins.

Also receiving awards for scouting efforts were Amy Quist, Robin Engle, Betsy Sauter and Kim Bowman.

The ceremony was held at 8:00 p.m. at St. Thomas Church and was attended by parents and other adults who have helped during the three years Troop 653 has been working on its first class status.

Also attending was a Senior Scout from Newtown Mt. Washington. She explained the activities and opportunities of a Senior Troop. Mrs. Kay Quist will be the Senior Advisor for Troop 653. Leaders during the past three years were Mrs. Ernestine Gerhard and Mrs. Sandy Caswell.
