

Council Makes Maintenance Deal On New Playfield

As a prelude to one of the longest Council sessions in recent memory, the April 10 meeting opened with a complaint about high water during rains in the 600 block of Miami Avenue.

A letter from Mrs. Ruth Mathis, and signed by 14 Miami Avenue neighbors, was reinforced by remarks from Dennis Elliott. Mrs. Mathis, Elliott and Ken Yelton appeared to plead for a dry well and drain to correct the long standing problem. Mayor Cadwallader referred the matter to Public Works Committee.

A landmark decision was made by Council in emergency passage of an ordinance at the April session to lease the newly-purchased Recreation Committee field for one day a month for one dollar per year. This lease will enable the village to mow the property for the recreation group.

All members of council felt that this was a proper move, but the manner of accomplishing the mowing job occasioned heated discussion.

Rodger Miller, Parks and Recreation chairman of Council and also a member of the Recreation Committee, noted that because of the heavy investment for the preparation and seeding of the field, it is imperative that proper attention be given to this season's mowing. He proposed that village maintenance personnel begin as soon as possible to mow the 10 acre field weekly. The committee has specific instructions from Gayle Taylor, a member, that must be used in cutting the field.

Dick Bowman and Pat Henley pointed out the problems of time and manpower in coping with the committee's specialized demands.

Miller introduced, in tandem with the lease proposal, the idea that the village and committee purchase jointly a mowing device which, according to Taylor, can mow the 10 acres in one and a half hours.

However, until the time when this matter can be studied by council, it is necessary to accomplish the task with the village five-year old Yazoo mower. This mows about one acre an hour.

To attempt to resolve the matter, Bill Howard proposed an amendment to the lease ordinance which would allow the village some flexibility in its mowing commitment. With Harness absent, Miller abstaining, and Bowman and Howard voting no, Rockel and Van Wye, aye, the Mayor cast the deciding vote.

Flag Ceremony, Olympics To Mark Memorial Day

Ceremonial disposal of the village's old American flag, and staging of the annual Junior Olympics and Marathon, will be features of Terrace Park's Memorial Day May 28.

The old flag, which flew from the staff on the village green, has been replaced by one given by the PTA. It will be burned in a ceremony performed by members of Girl Scout Troop 947 following the traditional parade.

Junior Olympics will start at the athletic field at 1 p.m. Events will be 50-yard dashes for kindergarten through eighth grade; broad jump, one through 8; high jump, three through eight; baseball throw, three through eight, and tug-o-war, kindergarten through eight.

Entrants of all ages will muster at Stanton and Elm to start the second annual marathon at 3 p.m. Runners will be grouped as follows: 14 and under, 15-18, 19-29, 30-39 and 40 and over.

Dwight Wages will lead the TP Pops band in a concert on the green after the marathon.

ODOT Official Fails To 'Sell' Road Plan

Hostility was the prominent reaction of three councilmen to a presentation by William Brayshaw, deputy director of District 8 of the Ohio Department of Transportation, when he appeared before the April meeting of Council. Brayshaw and engineers for Balke Engineering came to explain the proposed Round Bottom Road upgrading to a two-lane county road which could eventually be connected with the I-275 interchange if Clermont County builds the link.

Instead, the state and county would substitute the reworked Round Bottom Road with the anticipation that Route 50 would connect somewhere west of Newtown into the present Route 32. (This would ensure that Terrace Park Route 50 through the village would not revert to a county road, which would cause severe hardship on the village budget.)

Terrace Park's welfare. Brayshaw pointed out that although the design is on the boards, completion of the work and of any connector to Route 32 from the Mariemont-Newtown area is upwards of 10 years away.

Terrace Park Council passed a resolution against upgrading of Round Bottom Road in February.

Brayshaw called this a "trade-off," a word to which Bill Howard took exception.

Councilman Rockel added emphasis to Howard's sentiments by blasting Brayshaw's and the county's plans as accommodating industries at the expense of Terrace Park's rural atmosphere. Rockel reiterated the possibility that 150 trucks per day would use the road. Dick Bowman also objected strongly to the road work as being detrimental to

Don On TV
Don Cooke, 731 Miami Avenue, nationally-known bee authority, is going to be in the Guinness Book of Records and on a nationally-televised Guinness TV special hosted by David Frost.

For years, Don has displayed his skill in handling bees at the annual Ohio Honey Festival in Lebanon by allowing bees to swarm in a "beard" on his face. Some bee-keeping friends thought the feat should have some recognition, resulting in his being invited to be on the show.

The special was taped in Los Angeles earlier this month, and is scheduled to be shown on ABC (Channel 12) at 8 p.m. on May 20.

Tom Klinedinst Chosen To Head Swimming Club

Tom Klinedinst has been elected president of the Terrace Park Swimming Club, which is making plans for opening on the Memorial Day weekend.

Dennis Elliot will be in charge of pool and grounds; Loy Jones, swimming; Tom Proctor and Julie Northrup, tennis; and Janet Stollmaier, membership. Dan Rusche will be manager.

Dave Brown is vice-president and administrator; Frank Taylor, treasurer; and Suzanne Lakamp, secretary.

A bulletin will be sent out in May, listing summer activities.

One Officer Leaves, Another Appointed

After numerous housekeeping ordinances and resolutions were dispatched, Council adjourned into executive session to discuss the BBSCo. matter. No public report was given as to the outcome of the previous month's court appearance, but the payroll ordinance shows that $900 legal fees were paid to Cors, Hair and Hartsock for legal services on the matter from November, 1978, through February 23. Louis J. Schneider, Jr., counsel on the BBSCo. suit, is with that firm.

• To put Terrace Park in compliance with state law effective July 1, council passed an ordinance approving a mutual aid agreement for life squad service with Milford and Miami. This is necessary if a municipality does not have a back-up unit. Fire Chief Pierce Matthews pointed out that we have long had agreements with these communities but the new law requires formalization for our squad to be certified.

• Surface treatment of the following streets was approved by passage of a resolution to advertise for the work: Amherst Avenue, Miami Avenue, from Oxford to the south end of the village; Fieldstone and Marion Lane.

About Cable TV
Views of residents of Terrace Park, Mariemont and Fairfax concerning cable TV will be sought at a public meeting at Mariemont Middle School at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, May 3. The meeting was arranged by Jim Stock, assistant superintendent of Mariemont Schools.

Her Own Show

Terrace Park artist Agnes Fay will present an exhibition of her watercolors at the Row House Gallery, 211 Main Street, Milford, through the week beginning April 21.

Opening receptions will be held from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. on April 21 and from 1-5 p.m. on Sunday, April 22. The show will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. the remainder of the week.

VV Salutes Bonnie and Ellis

By Jeanne Sanker

A Golden Wedding Anniversary presents the perfect opportunity for a summation of words of appreciation and reminiscences. Thus Terrace Park salutes the Rawnsleys with this tribute to their ever-growing list of interests and their never-ending service to our town:

To Ellis:

For serving as Fire Chief from the late 1940's to 1969. Who could ever forget that first homemade fire truck — the old Chevy pick-up loaded with civil defense equipment on the back?

For his many years with the Life Squad. Several have spoken of his calmness and his ability to take command of the situation regardless of the age of the patient.

For his willingness to share advice about and supplies for gardening. He has served on the Cincinnati Garden Center Board and last year designed their calendar.

For service with Village Views from its beginnings ten years ago and for being its editor the last three years.

For his interests in Victorian homes and English gardens.

To Bonnie:

For her many years of service to the school and for her work as P.T.A. President; also her work on the Board of Education.

For her work in Garden Club for 20 years, and for her service to the St. Thomas Altar Guild for that same period. She has been in the St. Thomas Sewing Guild since its inception and is famous for having made thousands of calico-and-gingham balls for babies. Thanks to her, too, for the many dolls she has dressed for the Salvation Army's annual Christmas doll program.

For the many lap robes she has made for residents of nursing homes, and for the hundreds of items she has helped the group make for Children's Hospital.

For her exciting interest in herb gardens and herb cooking, and her eagerness to share results with others.

Many in Terrace Park have spoken not only of the Rawnsley's generosity of time and talent but also their donation of land to the village. Others refer to the warmth and hospitality of their home, knowing they can stop by unannounced and still be made welcome for a chat. Some have referred to them as surrogate parents and feel they could share almost any problem with them.

Our wish for this unusual couple is that they will be able to spend many more happy years in Terrace Park together — and with us.

Anniversary Couple Remembers When

By Zoe Moore

Congratulations to Ellis and Bonnie Rawnsley who celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary this April — and thirty-nine of those years have been spent in Terrace Park!

For newcomers, Ellis is the editor of the Village Views as well as a garden editor for the Enquirer. But for established TPer's, Ellis and Bonnie are really pillars of the community, the special people who give of themselves to help make this such a unique place to live.

But to get back to the beginning: I asked them what made their marriage work for fifty years. Ellis slowly puffed his cigar, regarded me seriously, and with a twinkle in his eye, said, "Being married fifty years is easy; it's the first forty-nine that are so rough." Bonnie had to laugh but added, "We had the right combination: the aggressiveness of the German and the reserve of the English."

Bonnie's parents came from Germany and settled in a rural area near Pittsburgh. She says she's "really a Dutchman." Ellis was born in Yorkshire, England, and emigrated in 1920. His family lived in Passaic, New Jersey, a textile center. Even then he was a newspaperman, working on his high school paper and then the local paper. In fact, while on the police beat for the Passaic Paper, he covered a strike in the textile mills — coverage which caught the attention of the Associated Press and led to a job offer in the Trenton bureau. At that time, Ellis was the youngest person ever hired at AP.

A transfer to the Pittsburgh AP office soon followed and Ellis found himself working the "pony circuits." That meant he edited AP news and had readers to telephone it to small newspapers. One of the part-time readers was Bonnie's youngest brother. And then . . . on the day that Lindbergh landed in Paris, Ellis and Bonnie met. Their wedding date was April 13, 1929. Bonnie remembers it as "a pretty day. I carried Talisman roses. Ellis added, I was late; I'd rented a car for the honeymoon and the battery went dead overnight." That was followed by four flat tires on their honeymoon trip to New Jersey, Atlantic City, and Washington, D.C.

Pittsburgh was home for a few years, highlighted by the birth of Mary Louise, better known as "Lou. Then the Editorial prerogative went by the boards this month as members of the VV staff insisted on doing something about a certain 50th wedding anniversary. This is their page and these stories were NOT handled by the editor

Rawnsleys spent four months in Columbus where Virginia was born. In 1931 Ellis was put in charge of the Cincinnati AP office. And, strangely coincidental, the Rawnsleys moved to Westwood on the day the Lindbergh baby was kidnapped.

Changes were coming: son David was born, Ellis began working for the Times-Star and the family moved to Terrace Park in 1940, to the house they still occupy at 717 Wooster. The land their house sits on was once a nursery with dug-out pit greenhouses which were heated by long stovepipes. To this day some of the bulbs still bloom from that early nursery — perhaps an early inspiration for Ellis' and Bonnie's green thumbs!

I asked about Terrace Park in the 40's. Ellis remembers seeing a deer in the garden one morning while having breakfast. Bonnie recalls the Maridot Tea Room — in the house at 435 Elm where the Ellsworths presently live. "It was a private sort of tea room, with delightful lunches served inside. Delicious chicken salad! You could call ahead to make arrangements. And the post office was in the yellow building (next to the present post office). Everyone had his own box and it was a social event just to pick up your mail. The trains stopped at the station right across from the market and we'd get off there, coming home from vacations."

But most fondly they spoke of the Terrace Park school, of their children going through all the grades in one building. "That generated such a closeness within the community," Bonnie said. They recalled baseball games on their side lot and the house filled with children and friends after athletic events. "It seems just the same when the grandchildren are here," Ellis added. "Now we have eleven grandchildren and two of them are married."

In finishing my interview, I asked the Rawnsleys if they would like to add anything to what they'd already told me. Bonnie said, "This is a time for us to thank everyone in the park. They have been friends in time of personal crises." And so — Thank you to Terrace Park, to a very special, caring community, with love from the Rawnsleys.

School Staff Cut, Teachers Air Protests

After a stormy one and one-half hour session with teachers over a change in evaluation procedures, the Mariemont Board of Education concluded its April 10 meeting with renewal of three-year contracts for principals and non-renewal of contracts for three teachers whose evaluations were in dispute.

In a show of support for their colleagues, more than 65 teachers attended the meeting.

Beverly Eiche, president of the Mariemont District Teachers Association, in a statement claimed the administration had violated the board's own evaluation policy. Several teachers suggested that the administration used evaluations as a means of reducing staff, noted that simple termination of service is all that is required by Ohio law for non-tenured teachers, and charged that some teachers were asked to resign in order to receive good recommendations for future teaching positions.

In reply, Dr. Donald Thompson, superintendent, said "the thrust of evaluations has not been directed from this chair. I don't know where this information evolved. My directions to the principals was to be honest and fair."

The teachers cited the Teachers' regulations handbook statement that "no employee will be discharged or fail to have his/her contract renewed because of ineffective or poor teaching before he/she has been provided with written notice of his/her inadequacies or shortcomings, as well as with concrete direction for improvement."

The teachers whose poor evaluations resulted in non-renewal all testified that their previous evaluations this year had been satisfactory. The final evaluations were conducted on March 28. Notices about renewal of contracts were received on March 30.
