

1990 Census Figures Profile Life in Village

Terrace Park's 2,133 residents make up 759 households with median incomes of $61,419, living in homes 96.4% owner-occupied with a mean valuation of $152,100.

The figures are from a village profile developed from the 1990 census obtained by Village Views.

Of the 629 residents aged 25 and over, 323 had graduate or professional degrees, with 60.9% of the total having bachelor's degrees or higher, and 94.3% being high school graduates.

Those between 24 and 44 years old made up the largest age group, 629, with the median age being 37.9. There were 201 persons under 5, 433 from 5 to 17, and 24 at 85 years and older.

Of the resident population of 2,133, there were 1,022 males and 1,111 females. In the work force--counting all those 16 years old and older--there were 547 men and 414 women. Eighty-five percent of them drove alone to work, with a mean travel time of 23.8 minutes.

Most of the total of 961 in the labor force were in upper level positions, with 253 listed as in executive, administrative and managerial occupations and 234 in professional specialties. There were 109 in administrative support positions, 214 in sales, 135 in wholesale trade, and 108 in finance, insurance and real estate. There were 126 self-employed, 69 in governmental services, 95 in health services and 95 in education.

The largest groups in the listing of household incomes lay between $35,000 and $149,999, with 74 reporting 1989 income of $150,000 or more. There were, though, two families reported as below the official poverty level.

Of the total number of households, 107 reported 1989 income of $35,000 - $49,999; 187 incomes of $50,000 - $74,999; 120 of $75,000-$99,999 and 102 of $100,000 - $149,999.

Social Security beneficiaries numbered 227, with mean SS income of $9,602.

School enrollment amounted to 578 persons 3 years old and over, with 391 in elementary or high school, of which 15.6% were in private schools, and 99 in college.

The report listed 30 babies up to a year old--18 boys and 12 girls. There were 39 boys and 44 girls in the 1-2 age group, and 40 boys and 48 girls between 3 and 4 years of age.

Residents listed more than 34 sources of ancestry. Those claiming some English, Scottish, Welsh, Irish or Scotch-Irish blood made up the largest group at 1,206, followed by German at 1,132. The list included 12 reporting some Arab background. In all, 61.5% were Ohio-born.

The village counted 294 war veterans, with 110 at age 65 or over.

Of the 759 occupied housing units in the village, 435 have been built since 1950, with 232 listed as dating from 1939 or earlier. Forty-four of the village homes were valued at $300,000 or more, with 577 in all being valued at $150,000 or more. Most of the houses -- 633 -- had three or four bedrooms. There were 5 bedrooms in 86 of the

Two houses were listed at $500,000 or more in value, and six at between $400,000 and $499,999.

The aggregate value of owner-occupied homes in the village was put at $118,090,000, for an average value of $169,426.

A shift in heating systems indicated in reports of 548 homes heated by utility gas, 65 by electricity, 3 by LP gas, and 143 by oil.

All homes received public water supply but two, listed as relying on individual drilled wells.

Forty-nine households were reported as being headed by women.

Of the village households, 431 were listed as having two cars, while 138 had three or more. One-car households totaled 168. Two households reported none.

County Health Department To Investigate Creek's Pollution

Hamilton County's Health Department has been asked to investigate reported serious pollution of the creek which drains the Fieldstone, Marion Lane and Wagon Road Lane area joining the Little Miami River via Wooster Pike and Elm and Ford Roads.

Councilwoman Barbara Howland said the village "will do what is necessary" to meet the situation.

Hap Lindell said a study made for him showed creek pollution to be far in excess of EPA limits and with flow insufficient to carry off pollutants.

The issue arose originally with proposed development of the area at Wooster and Elm. Lindell had questioned whether the stream could adequately carry effluent from the development's proposed aerobic sewage systems. Investigation, he said, showed that EPA standards were being violated even before development began.

At its November meeting, village council agreed to a year's extension of the village contract with the Milford Fire Department for daytime protection. The renewal involves a $200 increase, to a year's total of $16,000.

Fire Chief Pierce Matthews said he was well satisfied with the service and cooperation Milford has provided. The contract, he noted, puts no limit on the number of calls or the manpower and equipment to be provided.

While Matthews noted that the village fire department has just added six new volunteers, few are reliably available for daytime duty and that he still was "not comfortable" with the level of daytime protection his force could provide.

The new recruits, he said, all of whom passed required state tests with almost perfect scores, are Jack Gambetta, Jim Christopherson, Tony Lehman, Jamie Burchenal, Lee Nordloh and Bob Donnelly.

Details of proposals to upgrade the Village Green to commemorate the Village Centennial were presented to council. As outlined by the Terrace Park Centennial Committee, plans call for replacing the present blacktop walk across the green with engraved bricks or cut stones purchased by residents, brick paving around the flag pole-cannon area, and placement of four concrete benches. Sandy Wittman-Shell and Linda Naylor co-chair the centennial committee.

Full details, including an order form, are available at the village office. The committee has set a deadline of January 31 for orders, so that the walk can be in place for the Memorial Day celebration of the Centennial.

On others matters:

- Police Chief Bob Bacon reported a continuing investigation of trafficking in marijuana following the arrest of two Edgewater residents for possession of two marijuana plants.
- Bacon reported 84 truckloads of leaves picked up to date. He said the work remaining had been slowed because an extra helper quit the job.
- Council gave second readings to ordinances setting up new driveway regulations and requiring that any new lot have frontage on a dedicated street. Julie Rugh questioned the proposed $50 driveway permit fee. Public hearings will be held before the December 8 council meeting.
- Dan Startzman reported that only installation of a power pole and gas heater remain to complete the maintenance building.
- To take advantage of a price discount, council approved a $12,950 contract for a new Ford police cruiser, which had been a $17,000 item in the budget for 1993.

Happy Birthday, Effie!

More than 80 of Effie Miller's family, friends and neighbors gathered under a huge tent in her side yard on Saturday afternoon, October 24, to offer her congratulations on the occasion of her 90th birthday. The party was given by Effie's two sons, Dale and Virginia Miller of Milford and S. Lee Miller of Knoxville, Tennessee, and their families.

A Terrace Park resident since 1937, Mrs. Miller served as postmistress here for 23 years and is a 50-plus-year member of the Terrace Park Garden Club. Effie has also been an active member of St. Thomas Church and in AARP.

Confessing to feeling overwhelmed by this outpouring of greetings, Effie points to numerous gifts of flowers and well over 100 greeting cards with a simple, "I've been blessed with a long life and with this community!" We add our best wishes to Effie, and our sincere appreciation for all that she has given of herself to make this community what it is today.

Village Supports Fundraiser

Terrace Park's annual Pancake Supper, prepared by the EMS-Firefighters, was held November 7 at Terrace Park School. Over 700 people attended the fundraiser and enjoyed a delicious all-you-can-eat dinner of pancakes, sausage, applesauce and milk or coffee. The EMS-Fire teams want to thank village residents for supporting their efforts. Pictured here are Mimi Matthews, Chief Pierce Matthews, Dennis Elliott,

Residents Urged To Select Live Trees

Village residents are being urged to buy live instead of cut Christmas trees this year, planting them later in their own yards or contributing them to the village.

Police Chief Bob Baco said the village has places for several trees, including planting around the new maintenance building, and after Christmas donations would be

Last Call

Its the last call for corrections to the new village telephone book.

A yellow card is enclosed in each book on which to report necessary changes to Terrace Park Volunteer Emergency Services, 428 Elm Avenue.

Corrections will be published in an upcoming Village Views.

Police Advise T.P. Residents of Scam

Terrace Park police have received reports of a "scam" operation being played upon residents. A man is calling to ask for donations to the Terrace Park Fire Department and a T.P. Police fund. Initially, the caller was unaware that the T.P. Volunteer Emergency Services Association holds its annual Pancake Supper as its major fundraising activity, held this year on Saturday, November 7. The perpetrator, however, now has this information.

Police Lt. Jerry Hayhow advises any residents who receive such a telephone request to merely ask the caller, "Where may I send the donation?", information to T.P. Police at once. Police will then pursue this individual.

A Warning: Do Not Move Tree Stakes

Don't move those stakes marking where new trees are to be planted!

Barbara Howland reported at the November council meeting that one such move had forced the digging up and replanting of a tree. Moving the stake, she said, may have been a prank, but one with possible serious consequences. Tree planting, she said, takes into consideration the location of gas and water lines, rupture of which--a gas line particularly--could be extremely dangerous.

Reporting 70 trees planted this fall, she said the village is ready to consult with any householder concerning tree planting on or near

T.P. Child Safety Project Gamers National Attention

Terrace Park's new child-restraint enforcement program is drawing nationwide attention. The program provides child car seats to non-complying motorists, waiving the $65 penalty when a seat is returned and proof given that one has been purchased and installed.

Police Chief Bob Bacon said the plan had received television coverage in Boston, Chicago and Denver, as well as being featured on National Public Radio's "Morning Edition" carried locally on WXXU. There have been numerous inquiries from other police departments.

In a letter of commendation from Mayor Randy Casteel to Lt. Jerry Hayhow (the officer who initiated the program), Casteel says, "Now congratulations on the child restraint project are coming in from as far away as Chicago. You have planted a seed that is going to grow. Many children will be saved from injury and possible death because of this project. As my client from Chicago stated, 'It is nice to see some simple, common sense government.'"

Four seats, provided by Childrens Hospital, were installed by village officers within two weeks

Centennial Reflections

In the Terrace Park of Daniel B. Startzman's youth, sparse population was a distinct advantage. "From our house (at the corner of Rugby and Yale), I'd walk over to Amherst and Yale and then cut straight through vacant lots all the way to school," said Startzman who turns 80 next month.

He knew every family in the village and knew all of their houses — from the inside out. Even now, after these homes have changed hands numerous times, he can recall the original occupants and often the succession of owners.

But what do you expect from the resident who has lived here the longest?

Startzman was born in December of 1912 in the stately brick home at 223 Rugby Street, just a few weeks after its completion. Except for a brief stay in his mother-in-law's home in Madisonville, he's lived here ever since.

Like most families at that time, Startzman's dad worked downtown and commuted on the train that came right through town (now the bike path). Young Dan saw the money-making potential of this circumstance. He stationed himself outside what's now the Post Office and offered weary executives lemonade for two cents a cup. His cups were really glass jelly jars that had to be carried home and washed every night. But he didn't mind.

"This was a fabulous place to grow up," he said. "It's never occurred to me to live anywhere else, although my wife, Kath, thought she was moving to the boondocks when I brought her out here."

Parents today give Terrace Park high marks for its safe streets and relatively light traffic. But when Startzman was growing up it was "a rarity" for any car to venture down Rugby. So kids got the run of the street, from sunrise to sunset. But some also had vast yards to play in.

Startzman remembers one neighbor girl who had a favorite sycamore tree. But she wasn't interested in the tree house her siblings used in the lower branches. She set her sights on a branch 35 feet up, nailed in horizontal boards and climbed up to this perch to read, which she did for hours on end.

It just so happens that this sycamore, now over 100 years old, is in Startzman's current backyard at 305 Rugby. When he looks up the trunk he can still see the ends of the boards, although the tree has mostly grown over them.

The local school, which went through high school, was as much a source of pride for Terrace Park then as it is now. Students came from all over the surrounding area. Startzman, who graduated in 1930, belonged to one of the largest classes. He had about 20 classmates. Others had as few as two or three.

He recalls that in those years the Labor Day Festival was a bigger event. In addition to baseball games, which went on all day, there were boxing matches and horse races. Another draw for crowds was the annual tennis tournament at Terrace Park Country Club (which really was in T.P. in those years). Startzman remembers national and international stars like Bill Tilden coming here to compete. What made it truly memorable was that they stayed in the homes of local families.

After graduating from Washington and Lee in 1934, Startzman

Co., the oldest glass company west of the Allegheny Mountains. He worked with other family members there until 1973, then went to Nurre Building Materials and worked until his second retirement in 1985.

He is not the only Daniel Boone Startzman in Terrace Park. Both his son and grandson share his name. It was young Daniel, age 13, who nicknamed his "Granddan" a number of years ago. Now Startzman is called that by many kids in the park. He also answers to "Uncle Dan" which is how some former boy scouts address their old cubmaster.

Pumpkin Festival is Successful

The Terrace Park School PTA offers a huge thank you to everyone who attended the annual Pumpkin Festival at the school on October 30. The event included the Bid and Buy which netted over $11,000 and the game/food area which took in over $3,500. A final tally is yet to be determined.

Five new MacIntosh computers and a printer have already been ordered using some of the funds. A special committee is in place to determine how the remainder of the money can best be spent.

Pictured here, kids enjoy one of the successful new games this year (Ping Pong Toss) which, if successful, won them a goldfish.

In Council -

- Julie Rugh reported that two alternatives to Warner Cable TV service had been offered to the Intercommunity Regulatory Commission. The alternatives, she said, were "interesting but would create administrative problems". She added that Dr. Don Thompson, school superintendent, and Bill Konold would work with her in negotiating a new cable contract.
- Council approved an ordinance transferring a small part of Jim and Sue Porter's Wooster Pike property from Indian Hill to Terrace Park.

Market Day Offers Food Fit For A King

Market Day, Terrace Park School's new fundraising food co-op, offers steaks, poultry, seafood, side dishes, snacks, appetizers, and many gourmet delights at wholesale prices. The school profits were $167 on the first order in October. The second order, delivered November 11, was larger than the first. The December order promises to offer a large variety of food perfect for holiday entertaining or gift giving. Village residents may pick up order forms at the Community House or at the school, or may call Susie Gray at 831-7626 or Cheri McCarthy at 248-4746 for personal delivery of an order form. Village residents are welcome and encouraged to share in this new service provided by the Terrace Park PTA.

Centennial Update

At its November 10 meeting, Village Council approved a preliminary proposal by the Terrace Park Centennial Committee to work with the village's Building and Grounds Committee on replacement of the existing Village Green pathway with new, engraved paver stones that residents may purchase in recognition of the Centennial.

An order form for the purchase of the engraved pavers will be distributed to each resident by the end of November. The walkway project requires a 500-paver minimum commitment from the community in order to proceed. For additional order forms, residents may contact Linda Naylor, 248-4509, or Pat Hamm, 831-1929. All orders must be received by January 31, 1993.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I would like to express my thanks and appreciation to my friends and neighbors for the many cards and lovely flowers that I received in honor of my birthday. Thank you all!
Effie R. Miller

Dear Friends:

We want to take this opportunity to thank you for all of your kindness, help and support for us during Jeremy's stay in the hospital. Your being there for us did so much to get us through a difficult time.

After two years here, we were feeling pretty much at home this summer. We feel even more so now because this community has been like family to us.

Thanks again to all. We will always remember all the special things you did for us.

Sincerely,
The Schuberts

Sunday, December 6 Ushers In The Holiday Season

Terrace Park Garden Club Plans House Tour

On Sunday, December 6, from 1 to 5 p.m., the Garden Club will present its Christmas House Tour. The collection of six historical homes includes the Bollinger Home, circa 1920; the Carden Home, circa 1880; the Glascoe Home, circa 1890; the Mileham Home, circa 1869; the Pruis Home, circa 1915; and the Starks Home, circa 1902. Each of these interesting houses played a significant part in the development of our village over the past 100 years.

Life in Terrace Park in that time period was one of families vacationing in their summer homes by the river, of gentleman farmers tending their land, and of railroad personnel settling here in stately clapboard houses and helping to establish a community.

Chairwomen Donna Taylor, Grace Holmes and Sarah Lewis invite you and your guests to go back in time with us to celebrate our village centennial year. Tickets are $5.00 and may be purchased from Garden Club members or Ticket Co-chairwomen Diana Greer and Barbara Self. They may also be purchased at the homes on the day of the event. Proceeds will be used for village beautification projects.

TP Tree Lighting, Luminaria

The annual ceremony celebrating the lighting of the pine tree on the Terrace Park Village Green will be held on Sunday, December 6, at 6:30 p.m., when Santa arrives to help Mayor Casteel kick off the holiday season in Terrace Park. The Sometime Marching Band and area singers will be on hand to lead the crowd in singing seasonal carols.

Many homes in the Village will be decorated that evening with Luminaria supplied by Kindervelt #76. The siren will sound at 6 pm to signal the lighting of the Luminaria. Any residents who were missed in the pre-order of these kits may call Karen Aicklen, 831-7525, or Marcia Moyer, 831-4322 to order now.

Comey & Shepherd Realtors have graciously offered to donate funds necessary to have the lights hung upon the giant pine tree.

Free wagon rides will once again be offered by the Eppa Rixey Insurance Agency to view the evening's decorations. Rides will be available from after the opening ceremony until 9:30 pm, leaving from the corner of Elm and Amherst.

Thanks to the generous sponsorship of Candace and Joe

Grafton, children will have the opportunity to be photographed with Santa on the gazebo following the tree lighting. There is no fee for this popular feature, but please note there is a limit of one photo per child.

Coordinating the tree-lighting event is Grace Holmes, who was responsible for expanding the traditional ceremony five years ago. Assisting Holmes will be Doug Bosse, who makes sure the sound system is in order, and Jeff Willis, who is handling the lighting for the photos with Santa.

Anyone who wishes to donate to the Terrace Park Village Tree Fund may send checks to Grace Holmes at 607 Home Street.

T.R.A.C. Needs You

Councilwoman Julie Rugh is looking for Village residents interested in joining the resident action group T.R.A.C., or Terrace Park Recycling Awareness Committee. Many solid waste issues are being discussed at council level and need to be addressed by interested residents. Call Julie Rugh at 248-1091 for updates and meeting times.

"Gifts Galore" To Aid Cancer Patients

The Friends of the Wellness Community are planning the first annual "GIFTS GALORE!" to be held Saturday, December 5, from 10 am to 5 pm, in the lobby of the Towers of Kenwood, 8044 Montgomery Road. This one day shopping spree will offer a fabulous collection from 40 different vendors, including gift baskets, children's apparel, pottery, artwork, and much more.

Terrace Park resident, Nancy Ward, of Elm Avenue, is publicity chair for the Friends of the Wellness Community. "Almost as important as raising money is our effort to create an awareness that the Wellness Community organization exists," states Ward. "The Wellness Community provides free support services for cancer patients and their families, to help patients fight for their recovery. With cancer touching the lives of three out of four families," Ward continues, "we have much work to do. For further information, contact Nancy Ward at 831-4439.

Cub Scout "Christmas Sweets & Treats"

Terrace Park Pack 97 of Cub Scouts will sponsor "Christmas Sweets and Treats" on Thursday, December 3, following the 7 pm Pack meeting, at 7:30 pm sharp, at the Terrace Park Elementary School Cafeteria. This innovative "auction-type" sale, run by "special guest" auctioneers, will feature wonderful confections, made from treasured family recipes using Cub Scout skills and Dads' help. There will be much to choose from: cookies, cakes, fudge, gingerbread houses, candy—offering residents a tasty, fun and easy way to coast into the holiday season without the mess in their own kitchens.

All residents are invited to attend the "Christmas Sweets and Treats" auction on December 3. Proceeds will benefit scouting events held in Terrace Park. Questions may be addressed to Debbie Oliver, 831-5171.

St. Nicholas Day at St. Thomas

St. Nicholas will be busy on Sunday, December 6th! Before he arrives at the Village Green in the guise of Santa Claus, he will be welcomed to St. Thomas Church in his original form, at the traditional 4:30 p.m., program.

Fifth and sixth grade Church School classes will again enact Tom Long's joyous play about the well loved saint, while the Junior choir sings Pat Matchette's lilting "Song of St. Nicholas". The play will be directed by Jeff and Pam Bell, Tom Terbruggen, and Kathy Startzman.

The community is invited to this 4:30 p.m. celebration. Children are asked to bring a new toy with separate wrappings. The toys will then be distributed to disadvantaged children through Inter Parish Ministry.

Author To Sign

Copies of Terrace Park's new history, "A Place Called Terrace Park", will be available for distribution on Sunday, December 6. Subscribers can pick up their copies at the Community House on that day from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m., or on Monday, December 7, from 1 to 3 or 7 to 9 p.m.

The author, Ellis Rawnsley, will be at the Community House on Sunday to oblige any who would like to have their books signed.

Schmidt Elected To Venezuelan Board

Ricki Schmidt has been elected President of the Board and Chairman of the Education Committee of the Colegio Internacional de Caracas, one of the two major international schools in Caracas, Venezuela. In the 48 year history of the school, she is the first woman to be elected president of the board. Ms. Schmidt was a long time Terrace Park resident and a past associate editor of the Village Views.

Residents interested in serving this community in a most important capacity, please call EMS Chief Connie Wilson at 831-8288.

H.S. Hall of Fame Grows By Five

Mariemont High School's Athletic Hall of Fame has grown by five. Four men and one woman - two from Terrace Park - were recently inducted:

- Greg Seely, a member of the MHS class of 1987, was being recruited by more than 100 Division One college football teams at the time of his death in the spring of his junior year. During his three years at MHS, he earned seven varsity letters: three in football, two in basketball and two in track. In his junior year, he was selected to the all-league football team as well as the Cincinnati Enquirer and the Cincinnati Post's all-city football teams. He was an outstanding contributor to the basketball team's sectional championship his junior year. Accepting the recognition for their son were Terrace Park residents Janet and Charles Seely.

- Pax Lindell, a son of Terrace Park residents Hap and Ann Lindell, was graduated from MHS in 1987. He earned seven varsity letters: three in football, two in basketball and two in track. During his senior year, he was voted all-league, all-city, and all-Southwestern Ohio for his football achievements. As team captain, he led the football team to the Eastern Hills League championship. As captain of the basketball team, he led the team to the sectional and district championships. Mr. Lindell is a student at the University of Arizona.

Others inducted were:

- Tom Wuest, who also was graduated from MHS in 1987, earned two varsity letters in basketball and two varsity letters in soccer.

- Pam Reeves Moreton, who was graduated from MHS in 1978, earned four varsity letters in tennis. Mrs. Moreton lives in Madisonville with her husband, David, and son, David Moreton III.

- Philip Sundahl, Jr., who was graduated in 1983, gained national recognition for his swimming ability. He is one of just two MHS athletes to qualify for varsity letters in all eight individual swimming events.

Ramsdell To Join In "Be Fit To Breathe"

Donna Ramsdell, daughter of Barry and Marie Ramsdell of Elm Avenue, and an aerobics instructor for IRS Health Improvement, will be joining 300 other local aerobics enthusiasts to perform a step aerobics routine during the Cincinnati Bengals NFL Step Reebok Halftime Show, at the December 20 Bengals game with the New England Patriots. Donna will be performing in an eight minute "Be Fit To Breathe" routine, to help raise funds for the American Lung Association.

In order to participate, Donna will need a minimum of $100 in donations to the American Lung Association of Southwestern Ohio by the December 20th date. If you wish to sponsor Donna, send your donation to the ALASO, in care of "Be Fit To Breathe", 1135 Kenwood

St. Thomas Plans Holiday Services

St. Thomas Church offers a Thanksgiving Day Eucharist Service at 10a.m. on November 26th.

On December 6th at 9:15 and 11a.m. services, Pat Matchette will direct an augmented Senior Choir in selections from Handel's Messiah, including the Hallelujah Chorus.

Christmas services scheduled by the church are as follows:
Thursday, December 24 - Christmas Eve:

Sunday, December 27: 8:00 a.m. and 10:00 a.m. only, regular Sunday services, no Church School.

Monday, December 28: 10:00 a.m. - Eucharist Service.

The community is invited to all of these services.

Gallagher Named Associate Dean

Dr. Karen Gallagher was named Associate Dean for Academic Affairs in the College of Education at the University of Cincinnati, in March of 1992. Since 1985, Dr. Gallagher has been a faculty member in the department of educational administration, teaching courses in the foundations of educational administration, computer applications, education policy analysis, and the planned field experience. Beginning in 1990, she worked with a legislative oversight commission, the Ohio Commission on Education Improvement, initially as a policy consultant and finally as the Staff Director. Dr. Gallagher has also worked with the Ohio Department of Education, the Governor's Education Management (GEM) Council, the Ohio Business Roundtable and the Ohio Chamber of Commerce on various projects centered on education reform.

In addition to her professional activities and teaching responsibilities, Karen Gallagher is the author of dozens of articles, chapters, books and reports on such subjects as school reform, business involvement in education, educational policy, and the effect of computer technology on schools.

Dr. Gallagher was born and raised in Seattle. She received her BA in political science from Western Washington University, her masters in communications from the University of Washington, and her Ph.D. from Purdue University.

Karen Gallagher is married to another professor, Dr. Pat Gallagher who is Coordinator of the Early Childhood program at the University of Cincinnati. Residents of Miami Avenue they have one son, Sean, who is in fifth grade.

A Case of Bad Batteries

Terrace Park residents with invisible fences may want to check the battery in the dog's collar. Recently, several dogs have "jumped" the fences to frighten walkers and

Mariemont Schools Renovate Dale Park

Space at Dale Park Community Center is being renovated for use by the Mariemont City School District administrative staff, but a date for the one-block move from Mariemont Elementary School to the new site has not been set.

The move has been necessitated by the need for more classrooms at the elementary school.

School board members met in their new, second-story meeting room at Dale Park for the first time Tuesday, Sept. 22, though refurbishing was incomplete. Their former meeting room now houses one of three Mariemont Elementary kindergarten classes.

The administrative staff has operated from the Mariemont Elementary building since 1970. Dale Park, a former elementary school which is still owned by the district, also houses the Extended Time program for students in grades K-6. In addition, several community groups meet at Dale Park.
